HISTORY OF SIXTH CAVALRY.

This Regiment was organized at Camp Butler, Ill., November 19, 1861.

Moved to Shawneetown, Ill., November 23, 1861, and encamped until February, 1862, when it moved to Paducah, Ky., and, moved from thence to Columbus, Ky., where the Regiment was divided—5 companies going to Trenton, Tenn., 5 to Memphis, and 2 companies remaining at Paducah and Bird's Point.

During the spring and summer of 1862 the several detachments operated against the guerrillas, and were in several engagements, the most important of which was Dyersburg, Tenn., and Olive Branch and Coldwater, Miss.—in all of which it was successful, with a loss of two killed and six wounded and one taken prisoner.

Early in the fall of 1862, the detachments were again united at Memphis, and November 24, 1862, formed the advance of General Sherman's Army Corps in its movements south towards Grenada, Miss.

In the latter part of December it was engaged, with others, in the pursuit of General Van Dorn, after his raid upon Holly Springs, engaging him for 7 consecutive days.

January, 1863, the Regiment returned to Lagrange, Tenn., where it went into winter quarters, and operated against the numerous bands of partisan rangers. While thus engaged the regiment, on one occasion, surprised and routed Richardson's command, near Covington, Tenn., capturing their entire camp equipage, ammunition, books, papers, etc.

Again, on the 29th March, a detachment of the Regiment was attacked, at midnight, by a superior force, and, although in a manner surprised, by a murderous volley poured into them while still sleeping, the command repulsed the enemy with effect—Lieutenant Wilson, and 8 men killed; Lieutenants Baker and Anderson and 20 men wounded. For the gallantry of the command a special order was issued, by General William S. Smith, complimenting officers and men.

April, 1863, was engaged in the famous expedition which, under Colonel B. H. Grierson, made the tour through Mississippi and Louisiana. In this expedition the Regiment traveled about 800 miles; was engaged a number of times with the enemy; destroyed a vast amount of property, and arrived safely at Baton Rouge, La., May 2, 1863, after a continuous march of 17 days.

It operated under General Banks in the siege of Port Hudson, June and July, 1863.

June 2, 1863, formed a part of Colonel Grierson's expedition to Clinton, La. June 3, had a heavy engagement with the enemy, and returned to or near Port Hudson, La., June 4, with a loss of 2 killed, 4 wounded and 3 taken prisoners.

Port Hudson having capitulated, July 8, 1863, the Regiment embarked, July 19, on board steamers for Memphis, where it arrived the latter part of July, 1863.

Moved in August to Germantown, Tenn., where it encamped until November 23, 1863, when it participated in Colonel Hatch's expedition to Covington, Tenn.; then to Lagrange, Tenn., there encountering General Forrest's forces. Had a sharp engagement, but discovering the enemy was flanking around in the direction of Moscow, the expedition was ordered to Moscow, where it arrived December 4, and had a heavy engagement, the Regiment sustaining a loss of 5 killed, 6 wounded, 26 taken prisoners and 2 missing. Routed the enemy, and drove them 15 miles, and returned to Germantown, Tenn., to its old camp, where it remained, operating against General Forrest and Chalmers' forces, until February 17, 1864, when it formed a part of General William S. Smith's expedition to West Point, Miss. There had a 3 days' engagement with General Forrest's command and returned to Germantown, where it remained in camp until March 30, 1864, when the Regiment re-enlisted as veterans, and ordered to Illinois, on furlough.

May 11, 1864, furlough having expired, the Regiment rendezvoused at Mattoon, Ill. Thence, moved to Memphis, Tenn., where it encamped until July, when 7 companies were ordered to proceed to Collierville, Tenn., to guard the railroad, until General A. J. Smith's expedition could move on and capture Guntown, Miss. Rejoined the Regiment at Memphis. Lieutenant E. Ball was killed, and 2 men captured, while on patrol duty at Collierville.

August, 1864, all of the effective part of the Regiment joined in General A. J. Smith's expedition to Oxford, Miss. August 13, had an engagement with General Forrest's command, at Hurricane Creek, Miss. Casualties, 3 men killed, 6 wounded.

The detachment that was left with the camps, at Memphis, participated in the fight with Forrest, when he made his raid into Memphis. Colonel M. H. Starr was mortally wounded, and 1 man slightly wounded, and Lieutenant Miller and 1 man captured.

The Regiment returned to White Station, Tenn., where it encamped until the first of October, 1864, when it composed a part of General Hatch's expedition to march through West Tennessee to Clinton, on Tennessee River. There joined General Washburn's expedition of Infantry. The Infantry disembarked and moved in the direction of Lawrenceburg, Tenn. General Hatch's Division of Cavalry composed the advance guard. After 2 days march the Infantry returned to Clinton, and the Cavalry moved on to Lawrenceburg. Thence to Savannah, Tenn., and returned to Clinton, where it remained for a few days.

General Washburn's command of Infantry embarked on steamers, and returned to Memphis. General Hatch's Division of Cavalry moved rapidly to Pulaski, Tenn., where it encamped for a few days. On its arrival at Pulaski, the Sixth Illinois Cavalry was ordered back on a 2 days' scout, on the Clifton road, and returned to the command at Pulaski. Then marched, with Division, down on Shoal River, near Florence, Ala., where it skirmished daily with General Hood's forces, while they were crossing the Tennessee River. Fell back, in advance of Hood's command, to Lawrenceburg, where it participated in a 5 hours' engagement with the enemy. Then back to Columbia.

After crossing Duck River the command halted for a few days.

The Sixth Illinois Cavalry was ordered to move rapidly to Shelbyville, Tenn.; then cross Duck River, and move 20 miles down the river and cross at Pike Ford, and return to the command at Columbia. After 2 days' march, arrived at Shelbyville; the third day, at Pike Ford. On arriving there it was ascertained that General Forrest's entire command had crossed the river, 6 miles below, the day before. By this time, the rebel scouts were discovered, in every direction. The Regiment being then almost in the rear of the entire rebel forces, the only chance to escape capture or annihilation was to swim the river and cut its way through, which was done with entire success. After crossing the river, the march was resumed, constantly skirmishing with the rebel patrol and flankers. After marching 18 miles, the Regiment camped so near the enemy that their fires could be seen, and they could be heard chopping wood. Next morning the Regiment resumed the march at one o'clock, and rejoined the command at Franklin, Tenn., at ten o'clock A. M. Its loss, on expedition, was 8 men missing. The battle at Franklin commenced at one o'clock, same day, in which the Regiment took an active part. After the battle was over, it marched to Nashville, Tenn., with the command, where it arrived about the last of November, 1864.

December 5, 1864, the Regiment was ordered on an expedition to Glasgow, Ky., and returned to Nashville, December 13, and, on the 14th, was a part of the cavalry that charged and captured the first two redoubts, and 9 pieces of artillery, and a number of prisoners. This closed the first day's fight. Lost 2 men killed, and 3 wounded.

On the morning of the 15th, the Cavalry was re-mounted, and moved on the right flank but finding the country too rough, was compelled to dismount and fight on foot; and, while the Infantry engaged the enemy on the left and center, the Cavalry engaged it on the right. In the afternoon of the second day's battle, the enemy's lines were broken, and a general stampede ensued. The Cavalry was again re-mounted, and ordered in pursuit of the enemy. Had another engagement about dark, which terminated in the complete rout of the enemy. Pursued them to Florence, Ala., and there abandoned the pursuit.

Marched with the command from Florence, Ala., to Gravelly Springs, Ala., where it encamped until February, 1865. Then moved to Eastport, Miss., where it remained until July 3, 1865, when it was ordered back to Nashville, Tenn. Then to Decatur, Ala. Then marched, with General Hatch's expedition, to Montgomery, Ala., where it arrived July 25, 1865, and remained until the last of August, when it moved to Demopolis, Ala., remaining there 6 days. The Regiment was then divided—6 companies to remain, and 6 to march back to Montgomery. Remained there until the last of September, 1865, when the 6 companies at Montgomery were divided into detachments. Two companies marched to Opelika, Ala., 1 company to Tuskegee, and the other 3 remained at Montgomery.

November 1, 1865, Regiment was ordered to march to Selma, Ala., to be mustered out of service.

Mustered out November 5, 1865, and ordered to Springfield, Ill., for final payment and discharge, where it arrived November 17, and received discharge November 20, 1865.

HISTORY OF SEVENTH CAVALRY.

The Seventh Cavalry was organized at Camp Butler and was mustered into the United States service October 13, 1861.

Colonel Kellogg was absent in Nebraska during the early days of the Regiment and the drilling, instruction and discipline were mainly conducted by Lieutenant Colonel Price, until the last of October when he, Major Rawalt and Companies A, C, I, and G, were ordered to Bird's Point, where the other eight companies arrived on the 25th of December. Some time in January, all except Companies B, C, I, and L, moved to Cape Girardeau, from which point they did good service in scouting the country, giving protection to Union citizens and running out the rebels. The companies at Bird's Point were similarly employed during the remainder of the winter. Early in the spring of 1862, the portion of the Regiment at Cape Girardeau joined the forces under Pope at Commerce, and took the advance of that army against New Madrid, capturing a battery of steel breech-loading guns from the famous Jeff Thompson.

At New Madrid the Regiment again came together and operated south of that place on the Mississippi River, keeping a keen eye on the batteries along its banks and watching the operations of the rebel fleet of six vessels, part of which were ironclad, until the fall of Island No. 10, after which it moved up the Tennessee River with the forces under General Pope to Hamburg Landing, and thence in the direction of Corinth. The roads were nearly impassable, and before advancing roads had to be constructed by corduroying. In this manner four or five miles of progress were made each day until Farmington was reached. At this place Major Aplington fell, leading a charge on a concealed force of infantry.

After the evacuation of Corinth the Regiment occupied the Memphis and Charleston Railroad from Tusculum to Decatur, Ala., a distance of over forty miles, defending it from the local guerrilla bands of Roddy and others until December 1. It fought at the battle of Iuka, and afterward at Corinth October 2, 3 and 4, losing about 40 officers and men killed, wounded and missing.

November 23, seven companies fought Richardson near Summerville, and captured 70 men and two stand of colors. December 1, the Regiment was assigned to Colonel Dickey's command of Cavalry, which was joined at Holly Springs, Miss. The Cavalry pursued Price as far south as Coffeeville, where he made a stand and repulsed Dickey's command with severe loss. About 1,200 prisoners were taken from Price on his running expedition. December 21, 500 men from the Seventh Illinois and 300 from the Second Iowa, under Colonels Dickey, Hatch and Price marched from Oxford to Pontotoc, Miss., and thence to Tupelo, on the 23d, proceeding as far south on the Mobile and Ohio Railroad as Okalona, destroying immense quantities of stores and all the bridges between the two places. The command returned to Tallahatchie River and January 1, to LaGrange, Tenn., having marched over 500 miles during the month of December, and being engaged with the enemy nearly every day to a greater or less extent.

At LaGrange the Sixth and Seventh Illinois and the Second Iowa were brigaded together under Colonel R. H. Grierson. They made frequent forages into West Tennessee, relieving the rebel inhabitants of many fine horses and mules, which were abundant in that region. The rebel Colonel Richardson was conscripting every able bodied man and sending all the serviceable animals to the rebel army. His camp was frequently broken up by Colonel Grierson. His quartermaster was captured at one time and he himself narrowly escaped capture, being wounded in the leg.

On the 17th of April, the Seventh started with the Brigade on what is best known as "Grierson's Raid." Probably no movement in the war so clearly and unmistakably illustrated the dash, courage, hardihood and power of endurance of Illinois soldiers as this raid. The country traversed by this little force was in many places almost impassable, owing to swamps and bayous, and it swarmed with rebel troops. Not a day passed that they were not in danger of being cut off and annihilated. Swinging loose from all communications, destroying everything behind them so that return was impossible, they gallantly made their way to Baton Rouge.

After remaining at Baton Rouge two weeks the command moved up with forces under General Augur to invest Port Hudson, taking part in the battle of Plain's Store. During the siege the cavalry guarded the rear against the dashes of the rebels with whom it had several spirited engagements.

After the fall of Vicksburg and Port Hudson, the river being open, Grierson's command was ordered to Memphis, by steamer, from whence it was distributed along the Memphis and Charleston Railroad. It was engaged at Collierville, Tenn., in October, 1863, and had numerous encounters with a force of cavalry under the rebel General Chamblers once at Byhalia, where Lieutenant Nicholson, Company M, was killed and Lieutenant McCausland, Company B, seriously wounded.

December 26, the Regiment fought the entire force of Forrest without support, coming out of course second best. A few days later it was engaged at Moscow, Tenn., where Captain Styles, Company G, was seriously wounded.

In February, 1864, it marched with W. S. Smith from Germantown south, to West Point, Miss. The Seventh was in the rear most of the time returning and withstood some severe assaults from the enemy, none of which broke through to the main column. After returning to Germantown in March, 1864, 280 officers and men re-enlisted and were furloughed in April. Some of the non-veterans, about 120, were at Guntown under Sturgis in his celebrated defeat at that place. When Forrest made his raid on Memphis, seven companies of the Seventh Cavalry fought gallantly against the entire force on the Hernando road, losing several men killed, wounded and missing, and, joined with the Sixth Cavalry, followed him to the Tallahatchie River.

September 30, the Regiment, having been assigned to General Hatch's Division, marched toward the Tennessee River, via Summerville and Bolivar, crossing it at Clifton, where it was joined by an equal force of infantry, commanded by General Washburne in pursuit of Forrest, who crossed the same river safely at Florence about the same time the Seventh was crossing at Clifton. After remaining in the vicinity of Savannah, Clifton and Lawrenceburg until October 26, it was ordered to Pulaski, from which point it marched to Shoal Creek November 8, and remained on picket duty until the 21st, when Hood crossed and advanced as far as Lawrenceburg, when a short stand was made.

On the 24th, at Campbellsville, the Division was nearly surrounded by Forrest but succeeded in getting off without any serious trouble, save the loss of about 100 men and a hard march to Columbia, from which point the cavalry covered the rear and flanks of the infantry to Franklin, engaging the enemy at Hart's Cross Roads and at one or two other points.

At Franklin it charged a division of infantry, driving it across the Harpeth River, capturing several of its number.

December 13, Hatch's Division carried three lines of works and captured thirteen pieces of artillery, besides a large number of prisoners. Loss to the Seventh, 13 killed and wounded.

On the 14th, it charged the works at Brentwood Hills. Loss, Major Grayham wounded seriously; Captain McCausland, mortally; Captain Brant and Lieutenant Skinner seriously, and 23 enlisted men killed and wounded. The rout of Hood's Army being complete, the cavalry followed him to the Tennessee River, having a lively skirmish every day until the 23d of December, when he crossed at Bainbridge. In this affair the Fifth Division, Cavalry Corps M. D. M.,(Hatch's) captured 23 pieces of ordnance, about 2,000 prisoners and a large quantity of small arms.

January 13, 1865, found the command at Gravelly Springs, numbering 199 officers and men for duty, and they subsisted for about ten days on parched corn after arriving there. On the morning of December 13, 450 men were reported for duty, showing a loss of 251 in the short space of one month. After remaining at Gravelly Springs about three weeks the Fifth Division was dismounted and sent to Eastport to receive recruits, who poured in from every quarter, until the Regiment numbered over 1,600 men.

After the surrender of the rebel armies it was sent down to Okalona, Miss., where it remained until the first of July. It then moved to Decatur, Ala., and was mounted. It remained near Decatur until October 20, when it marched to Nashville and was mustered out of service and received its final pay and discharge November 17, 1865, at Camp Butler. Its period of service was about four years and three months.

HISTORY OF EIGHTH CAVALRY.

The Eighth Cavalry Regiment was organized at St. Charles, Ill., in September, 1861, by Colonel J. F. Farnsworth, and was mustered in September 18, 1861.

On October 13th, the Regiment moved to Washington City, and camped at Meridian Hill on the 17th. On December 17, moved to camp near Alexandria, Virginia. March 10, 1862, the Regiment joined the general advance on Manassas, in General Sumner's Division. The Eighth Cavalry remained at Warrenton until April 12—at four different times driving the enemy across the Rappahannock. Embarked at Alexandria on April 23d, and landed at Shipping Point, May 1st. May 4, moved to Williamsburg, and was assigned to the Light Brigade, General Stoneman commanding. The Regiment was engaged during the advance of the army up the Peninsula.

On June 26th, six companies of the Regiment met the advance of the enemy, under Jackson, at Mechanicsville, and held it in check until three o'clock in the afternoon, when their line was driven back to the infantry lines.

The Regiment did important duty, in the charge of base which followed this action, at Gains' Hill, Dispatch Station and Malvern Hill, and, covering the extreme rear of the army, continually skirmished with the enemy's cavalry. Remained on picket, on the James River, while the army lay at Harrison's Landing. Led the advance to the second occupation of Malvern Hills, and, with Benson's Battery (United States Artillery), bore the brunt of the fight—Lieutenant Colonel Gamble being severely wounded. Brought up the rear of our retreating army to Barrett's Ford, on the Chickahominy.

On August 30, 1862, embarked at Yorktown, and landed at Alexandria on September 1st, and moved immediately to the front. On the 4th, crossed into Maryland, and was engaged at Poolsville. Captured the colors of the Twelfth Virginia (rebel) Cavalry at Monocacy Church. Captured 20 prisoners at Barnesville. Engaged at Sugar Loaf Mountain, Middletown and South Mountain, and, at Boonesboro, captured 2 guns, killed and wounded 67, and taking 200 prisoners.

The Eighth Cavalry was engaged at the battle of Antietam.

On October 1st, had a severe fight with the enemy, during a reconnoissance to Martinsburg.

Moved in advance of the Army of the Potomac, and was engaged with the enemy's cavalry at Philomonte, Uniontown, Upperville, Barbee's Cross Roads, Little Washington and Amesville, arriving at Falmouth, November 23d, 1862. During the battle of Fredericksburg, December 13, two squadrons were in the city till its evacuation. The Eighth was on picket until February 17, 1863, on the left flank of the army, across the Peninsula and up the Rappahannock, to Port Conway, when it was moved to the right flank, near Dumfries. Loss, up to this time, 27 killed, 71 wounded, and 20 missing.

During the campaign of 1863, the Regiment was engaged in the following actions: Sulphur Springs, April 14; near Warrenton, April 17; Rapidan Station, May 1; Northern Neck, May 14; Borstly Ford, June 9; Upperville, 21; Fairville, Pennsylvania, June 30; Gettysburg, July 8; Williamsburg, Maryland, July 6; Boonsboro, July 8; Funktown,

July 10; Falling Water, July 14; Chester Gap, July 21; Sandy Hook, July 22; near Culpepper, August 1; Brandy Station, August 4; Raid from Dumphries to Falmouth, August 30; Culpepper and Pony Mountain, September 13; Raccoon Ford, September 13; Liberty Mills, September 21; Raccoon Ford to Brandy Station, October 11; Manassás, October 15; Warrenton Junction, October 30; Rexleysville, November 8; Mitchell's Station, November 12; Ely's Ford, November 30, 1863.

Loss, during the campaign, 23 killed, 116 wounded, and 37 missing.

The Regiment was mustered out of service at Benton Barrack's, Missouri, July 17, 1865, and ordered to Chicago, Ill., where it received final payment and discharge.

HISTORY OF NINTH CAVALRY.

The Ninth Regiment of Cavalry was organized at Camp Douglas, near Chicago, Illinois, in the autumn of 1861, by Colonel Albert G. Brackett, and was mustered into the United States service by November 30.

On the 16th of February, 1862, it started from Chicago and proceeded by rail to Benton Barracks, near St. Louis, Missouri, and thence to Pilot Knob. From there it marched to Reeve's Station, on the Big Black River, and was assigned to the Third Brigade of General Steele's Division, serving in the District of Southeast Missouri.

From Reeve's Station it marched to Jacksonport, Arkansas, where Colonel Brackett was left in command, the other portion of the Division moving on to Batesville, where it joined the Army of the southwest, under command of Major General S. R. Curtis.

On the 21st of May Private P. W. Pringle, of Company G. was murdered in cold blood by the rebels and his body left lying in a swamp near Jacksonport. On the 24th the Regiment crossed Black River and encamped in the woods.

May 28, five companies, under Lieutenant Colonel Hiram F. Sickles, had a skirmish with the Confederates at Cache River Bridge, routing them with considerable loss. In this affair Battalion Adjutant Blackburn and Private Tift were wounded.

Captain Blakemore had a skirmish on the same day on the Augusta road, with portions of three companies of the Ninth, against a Confederate force, in which two confederate soldiers were captured, one of whom was very severely wounded.

Upon the approach of the Confederate gunboat Maurepas, Captain Joseph Fry, the Ninth fell back two miles and a half, when the vessel shelled its late camp with 64 pounders. This was on the second of June. As soon as the boat retired the Regiment went back to its former camp.

The Confederate soldiers on the 12th of June attempted to capture a valuable train near the Waddell farm, five miles from Jacksonport, but were utterly defeated and driven off by Colonel Brackett with two companies of Missouri cavalry and four companies of the Ninth, with a loss of twenty-eight killed, wounded and missing. Our loss was thirteen wounded and missing.

Captain Marland L. Perkins with his company made a reconnoissance toward Augusta, down the right bank of White River, in June, and had two skirmishes with the enemy in which a Confederate soldier was killed and he had one horse killed and two wounded. He returned to camp June 23.

Again on the 27th of June, 1862, a large force of the enemy attacked a government train near Stewart's plantation; it was beaten off with severe loss, and the valuable train saved. On our side two were killed and thirty-one wounded, among the latter being Colonel Brackett, Major Wallis, Battalion Adjutant Blackburn and Captain Knight. Five of the enemy's dead were seen on the ground.

This was the day after the Regiment had started on the march for Helena, with the whole of General Curtis' Army. During the march five men of the Regiment died from hardships, it being almost impossible to obtain water. This was one of the most famous marches of the civil war.

At Helena the Regiment was assigned to the Third Brigade, Colonel Cyrus Bussey, of General A. P. Hovey's Division, District of Southeastern Arkansas, commanded by General Steele.

The Regiment received two small 12 pounder howitzers on the 15th of September, which being placed under command of Lieutenant E. G. Butler, with details from various companies, rendered excellent service.

At the fight at La Grange, Arkansas, two companies of the Regiment, with soldiers of other regiments, under Captain Marland L. Perkins, with two howitzers just referred to, behaved very gallantly against a considerable force of the enemy; he losing over fifty men, while our loss was inconsiderable. This was on the 8th of November. The command also repulsed a charge of two regiments of Texans.

During the night of October 11, a part of the Regiment captured a rebel picket of twelve men near Helena, Arkansas.

Brigadier General C. C. Washburn led an expedition, composed of parts of several cavalry regiments, from Helena across the Mississippi River into the state of Mississippi, during part of November and December, 1862. He had a skirmish with the enemy at Okolona, on the 6th of November and at Coffeetown on the 7th, in both of which he was successful and accomplished the main object of his expedition, which was to give the leaders of the rebel forces an idea that his troops were the advance guard of a large Union army sent to cut off the retreat of General Price and his rebels from their position. Price believed it and left accordingly. In Washburn's command Major Henry B. Burgh had one hundred and fifty men of the Ninth Illinois Cavalry.

January 9, 1863, the Ninth marched with General Gorman's command from Helena to Duvall's Bluff and returned. On the 7th of April, it moved up the Mississippi River to Memphis, Tennessee, and on the 12th to Germantown, where it was assigned to McCrillis' Brigade of Cavalry of the Sixteenth Army Corps. It was engaged with the enemy at Coldwater, Miss., July 28, and at Grenada August 18, and moved to La Grange, Tenn., August 26. Made an attack upon the enemy at Salem, Miss., October 8, and drove him from his position. Met the enemy at Wyatt, Miss., October 13, and after fighting all day the rebels fell back and retreated during the night.

November 8, moved from La Grange to Corinth, and returned soon afterward. Marched to Colliersville, and was assigned to the Second Brigade Cavalry Division of the Sixteenth Army Corps. Was engaged with the enemy at Saulsbury, Tennessee, and on the 4th the Division, under command of General Grierson, was engaged at Moscow, Tenn. In this fight the Ninth took a conspicuous part.

In January, 1864, the Regiment was in the Second Brigade, commanded by Colonel Albert G. Brackett, of Grierson's Division, Sixteenth Corps, Army of Tennessee, at Colliersville, and detachment under Major Ira Gifford had a brisk skirmish with a portion of Forrest's command, which had made an attack upon the Memphis and Charleston railroad, in which several of the enemy were killed and wounded.

February 11, 1864, the Regiment moved out by order of General Sherman against the enemy, with the Union force organized under General William Sooy Smith, Chief of Cavalry of the Division of the Mississippi, with a view to overthrow the rebel cavalry under General Forrest. He pushed across the country as rapidly as possible, crossed the Tallahatchie River at New Albany without opposition and moved on to Okolona, on the Mobile and Ohio railway, meantime having been engaged with the enemy at West Point on the 20th of February, at Okolona on the 21st and Mount Ivy on the 23d. While a portion of the command was sent to threaten Columbus the main body moved on, destroying an immense amount of corn, cotton, and other stores of great value to the Confederates. The Regiment returned to and encamped at Germantown on the 24th of February. Although the chief object of the expedition was not accomplished, the cavalry had inflicted heavy injuries upon the Confederates.

On the 16th of March the Regiment was mustered as a veteran organization, and the following day marched to Memphis, whence the men returned to Illinois, on the usual furlough granted to veterans:

April 27, the men of the Regiment returned to Memphis from furlough, and a short time thereafter a portion of them accompanied General Sturgis on his expedition against the enemy. At Guntown, Miss., on the 10th of June, our forces met with a severe check and were obliged to give way. The Ninth formed a portion of the rear guard, losing five killed, twenty-three wounded and twelve captured out of one hundred and sixty men.

Upon the failure of this expedition another, under General Andrew J. Smith, was fitted out and marched from Saulsbury to Pontotoc where a fight occurred on the 11th of July, and meeting the enemy in force near Tupelo another action took place, the confederates being driven from the field, leaving a large number of dead and wounded comrades. The next day, July 15, a severe cavalry fight occurred at Old Town Creek, where the Ninth acquitted itself with credit, and afterwards returned to Memphis.

In August the Regiment marched by way of Holly Springs to Abbeville, Miss., where it had a skirmish with the enemy, and on the 11th had another brush at Oxford. A severe fight took place at Hurricane Creek, the Ninth taking an honorable share, losing four killed and several wounded. It returned to its station at Memphis September 4.

With Captain William C. Blackburn in command the Regiment moved out again on the 30th of September, and, after crossing the Tennessee River at Clifton, marched by way of Waynesboro, Lawrenceburg, Florence, Ala., Waterloo, Hamburg, and Savannah to Clifton, pursuing the rebels under General Wheeler. The command returned again to Florence, and there met the advance of General Hood's Army. The Division to which the Ninth was attached did some hard fighting at Shoal Creek, Ala., on the 9th of November. On the 19th of the same month crossed the river and two days afterward attacked the enemy near Lawrenceburg, Tenn., the Ninth Illinois Cavalry being in the advance. Two Divisions of the enemy coming up compelled it to recross the river, and, in so doing, one battalion became detached, passed through the rebel line, and was compelled to remain in rear of the enemy until, under cover of the darkness, it recrossed the stream and joined its friends.

For several days after this the Regiment skirmished with the enemy's advance and at Campbellville, Tenn., on the 24th of November was hotly engaged. Here it kept its ground holding back many times its own number of rebels until its ammunition was entirely exhausted, when the men fought the confederates hand to hand, clubbing their carbines and doing much to retard their march.

The Ninth took part in the fierce battle of Franklin, Tenn., on the 30th of November, 1864, and did what was in its power toward crippling the Confederate army under General Hood. This battle was pronounced by Secretary Stanton as the bloodiest of the war in proportion to the numbers engaged.

At the great battles of Nashville on the 15th and 16th of December, the Regiment belonged to the Second Brigade of the Fifth Division of the Cavalry Corps, and sustained its well earned reputation for valor. It participated in a well directed charge upon a redoubt occupied by the enemy, which it carried and at the same time captured four pieces of artillery and took one hundred and fifty prisoners, sharing in the final rout of the enemy.

Soon the Army of General Hood was in full retreat and the Ninth participated in the chase which resulted in its destruction, skirmishing with portions of it at Brentwood, on the Franklin pike, near Franklin, at Rutherford's Creek and Ross' Farm. The roads had now become impassable, the rivers were filled to the tops of the banks, and the enemy could not be followed any farther. The dispirited foe was driven across the Tennessee River on the night of 27th of December, and it being impossible to supply our army the campaign closed with the closing of the year. General Thomas, in his order respecting these military movements, said: "Although short the campaign has been brilliant in its achievements, and unsurpassed in its results by any other of this war, and is one of which all who participated therein may be justly proud." The command moved to Huntsville, Florence, Eastport and Gravelly Springs. There not being a sufficient number of horses to mount all the cavalry, Hatch's Division was deprived of its animals, which were turned over to the other Division preparatory to their march farther south, and in consequence the Ninth was dismounted and left at Eastport on the 9th of February, 1865. As horses could be obtained the Regiment was again supplied and marched to Iuka, Miss., on the 23d of June, and thence to Decatur, Ala., July 4. From there it went to Montgomery, Selma and Ainesville, and was finally mustered out of the service at Selma, Alabama, on the 31st of October, 1865, and ordered to Springfield, Ill., where the men received final payment and discharge.

The organization as a whole had done good service, and always bore a fine reputation. Through swamps and across rivers it had followed the enemy, amid the heat of summer and snows of winter, and was entitled to the thanks of the State, as well as the gratitude of the Federal Government. To have participated in the Arkansas and Nashville campaigns, and received the thanks of Generals Curtis and Thomas, was something to be proud of and reflected honor upon Illinois.

HISTORY OF TENTH CAVALRY.

The Tenth Cavalry organized at Camp Butler, in the latter part of September, 1861, and was mustered into the service of the United States on the 25th of November, 1861, under command of Colonel James A. Barrett.

Lieutenant Colonel Dudley Wickersham became Colonel May 15, 1862. Colonel Wickersham was much of the time in command of a Division, Brigade or important posts, and in every position was efficient and worthy—esteemed by all who knew him and very greatly respected by the officers and men of his Regiment. Upon his resignation, May 10, 1864, he was succeeded by Colonel James Stuart, an accomplished officer, to whom much credit is due for the efficiency of the Regiment in drill, in which it was excelled by few, if any, in the service.

The Regiment was fortunate in having for its chaplain Reverend Francis Springer, D. D., who was one among the most efficient chaplains of the armies; preaching to the command whenever an opportunity afforded; at all times visiting and looking after the comfort of the wounded, sick and dying soldiers. Doctor Springer is remembered with kindest regards and esteem by all.

Immediately upon the organization of the Regiment a Band was formed, and continued through many adversities, a pleasant feature to the end.

The Regiment was mounted on horses owned by the individual members until in 1864, when the Government by purchase and supply became owner.

In the latter part of January, 1862, the Regiment moved to Quincy, where it was occupied in drill and learning the duties of soldiers, until March 13, 1862, when it moved to Benton Barracks. The Regiment left Benton Barracks by rail about the first of April, 1862, the Third Battalion, Major Marshal L. Stephenson, going first; followed in a few days by the Second, Major Joseph S. Smith, and a few days later the Third, Major E. P. Shaw. Upon its arrival at Rolla, Mo., the Third Battalion was immediately marched to Springfield, Mo., the other Battalions following as the necessary transportation for baggage could be furnished, and where all had arrived by the first of May.

At Benton Barracks and Rolla the Regiment had been partly armed and equipped, and after arrival at Springfield a full supply of sabres and revolvers, together with six two pound howitzers, were obtained. About the first of July, 1862, a few hundred rifles were issued it, but as these proved worthless they were soon disposed of and never reckoned in the armament of the Regiment.

The First Battalion, companies A, D, G, and K, under command of Major E. P. Shaw, left Springfield, Mo., June 15, 1862, to join General Curtis in Arkansas.

The Second and Third Battalions marched to Keytesville, Mo., July 8, and returned to Springfield on the 20th. Moved to Vera Cruz, Mo., on August 10 and to Marshfield, Mo., on the 16th, where the headquarters remained until November following. After the arrival of the Regiment at Springfield, Mo., it was almost constantly on duty. Expeditions by detachments were made in May and June to the west, and as far south as Yellville, Ark. Early in July, 1862, a detachment was at Cane Hill, in Arkansas, and on July 7 engaged a very superior force, killing one and taking many prisoners. A few days later, near the line of the Indian Territory, a skirmish was had, in which two of the enemy were killed and a number of prisoners taken.

From Marshfield detachments were stationed at Sand Springs, Hartsville and Clark's Mills, Mo., and the Regiment was constantly employed in guarding the road between Springfield and Lebanon, Mo., scouting the country, dispersing bands of guerrillas, protecting so far as possible the Union people and aiding in the formation of the Missouri State Militia. A successful expedition, under Major Stephenson, was made to Carrollton, Ark., several scouts made to Forsythe, Mo., and other points were visited until Southwest Missouri became almost as well known to the men of the Regiment as the prairies of Illinois.

October 20, 1862, Lieut. Colonel James Stuart with 105 men attacked a camp of 300 rebels on Niauqua creek, Mo., killing four, wounding many and capturing one captain with twenty-six men, totally dispersing the remainder, with a loss of one killed and one wounded.

On November 7th about seventy men of companies C and M with two howitzers and a few Missouri State Militia, under command of Captain Hiram E. Barstow, stationed at Clark's Mills, Mo., were attacked by a force of about 1200, with two pieces of artillery, under Colonels Burbridge and Green. After a fight of several hours, with prospect of success, Captain Barstow, (subsequently dismissed the service,) acceded to a demand for surrender, the officers and men being immediately paroled.

November 14 the two batallions were made part of the Army of the Frontier and moved to Wilson Creek, Mo., where Colonel Wickersham assumed command of a Cavalry Brigade composed of the 1st Iowa, 2d Wisconsin, 8th Missouri, and 10th Illinois. In the latter part of November this Brigade made a raid to Yellville, Ark., and returned to Wilson Creek, having marched 250 miles in five days.

On the 4th of December, as part of the army commanded by General Herron, this cavalry Brigade commenced the march to reinforce General Blunt in Arkansas. On the 6th the Brigade left the infantry column, and making a march of over 50 miles, reported to General Blunt at Cane Hill, Ark., at 10 o'clock that night. On the morning of the 7th, when it was ascertained that the enemy had passed to the north of Cane Hill, Colonel Wickersham was ordered with his command to Rhea's Mill, Ark., where General Blunt's supply train was. Soon after arrival at that place this cavalry Brigade was directed to go to the assistance of General Herron, then for the first time known to be engaged in battle. The Brigade reached the battle field of Prairie Grove, Ark., on the rear left flank of the enemy's line of battle about 3 o'clock P. M. A section of the howitzers from the Tenth was ordered to the front, where by a few rounds the presence of assistance to General Herron was made known. General Blunt with his command arriving shortly afterwards, the cavalry Brigade being armed with sabres and revolvers only, was used as a support to the artillery, placed in open field and prairie, and later, on the left line of battle. On the 8th the Regiment protected General Blunt's supply train to Fayetteville, Ark., afterwards joining in pursuit of the rebel army to Van Buren, Ark.

Returning to Fayetteville, Colonel Wickersham was placed in command of the post, with the Regiment as part of his force.

In January, 1863, the Second Battalion, companies B, E, H, and L, Major Jos. S. Smith, joined the Division of General Totten at Huntsville, Ark., and shortly after moved it to Flat Creek, Mo.

The Third Battalion, remaining at Fayetteville, was occupied in scouting the country, detachments making several expeditions south of the Boston Mountains, defeating the enemy in skirmishes at Van Buren, Frog Bayou and other places. In March it joined the Second Battalion in Missouri, when together they moved to Rolla, Mo., where carbines were procured, thus completing its armament as a cavalry regiment.

From Rolla these Battalions in April participated under command of General Vandever in an expedition to the relief of Cape Girardeau, Mo., and the expulsion of the rebel invading force from Southwest Missouri.

In May the two Battalions were at Pilot Knob, as part of the cavalry Division, being collected for an expedition into Arkansas. Here the two-pound howitzers were exchanged for two twelve-pound mountain howitzers. These were in a few weeks transferred to another command.

On July 1, the Battalions under Lieut. Col. Stuart, as part of the Second Brigade, Colonel Wickersham, First Cavalry Division, Department of the Missouri, Brigadier General J. W. Davidson, left Arcadia, Mo., for the march culminating in the taking of Little Rock, Ark.

Near Witsburg, Ark., August 1, the First Battalion joined them, once again uniting the Regiment.

The First Battalion joined General Curtis at Jacksonport, Ark., July 4, 1862. Was assigned to the Third Brigade, Colonel Hovey, commanding, First Division, Brigadier General Fred Steele commanding, and participating in the engagement at Cotton Plant, Ark., July 7, arrived at Helena, Ark., July 12, 1862. August 7, it moved to Old Town Landing; on October 6, returned to Helena and was assigned to First Brigade Colonel J. B. Wyman, Second Division Brigadier General E. A. Carr.

The Battalion participated in two lengthy expeditions under Generals Hovey and Washburn; the capture of Arkansas Post, Ark., the Yazoo Pass expedition to Fort Pemberton, besides smaller scouts, and was in the engagement at Richmond, La., June 6, 1862, where it lost two killed and one lieutenant with twenty-one men prisoners; the companies of the Battalion were separated much of the time as escorts to various Generals.

The Regiment with the Division reached Clarendon, Ark., August 7, 1863, and Brownsville, Ark., with the train, one day later than the Division, on the 26th. On August 27, as the advance of a reconnaissance by the Division, met the enemy a few miles from Brownsville, and driving him to his rifle pits, which he was soon forced to leave and retreat with his artillery to Bayou Metoe, later participating in the engagement at that place on the right of the line of battle, losing one lieutenant and one private killed.

On September 10 the Regiment took an active and honorable part in the engagement at Bayou Fouché and capture of Little Rock, Ark.; on the 11th and 12th were with the column pursuing the enemy, returning to Little Rock on the 13th. October 7 went to Pine Bluff, Ark., and returned to Little Rock on the 15th.

January 12, 1864, the Regiment received, by the hands of Lieutenant Robert J. Belamy, Company D, from Mrs. E. S. Turner, of the Soldiers' Christian Association, Chicago a beautiful silk national flag which, upon the disbandment of the Regiment was deposited with the Adjutant General of the State.

The Regiment having re-enlisted was sent home for furlough, arriving at Camp Butler February 28, 1864. Its members were welcomed home by Governor Yates in a speech delivered in Representatives hall of the Capitol, and after enjoying a dinner given by their lady friends of Springfield, dispersed to their various homes. Upon the expiration of furlough the men of the Regiment reunited at Camp Butler. It left Camp Butler, March 17, 1864, for Nashville, Tenn. Remained at Nashville but a short time when it was moved to Little Rock, Ark. Arriving at Little Rock without arms or horses, during the absence of General Steele on his expedition to cooperate with General Banks' Red River expedition, the Regiment, in the emergency for the defense of the place, was armed with muskets and supplied with a six-gun rifled battery. Owing to the small number of troops present, it was on duty almost without rest day or night, until General Steele's return.

The non-veterans of the Regiment accompanied the expedition under General Steele, and actively participated, in its various engagements.

The Regiment was stationed at Huntsville, Ark., in July, at Austin, Ark., in September and Brownsville, Ark., in November, where it remained until the following March.

During the summer and fall of 1864 and winter of 1864-65 detachments were absent almost all the time on various expeditions. July 14, 1864, 225 men being surrounded and attacked at Bayou Des Arc, near Searcy, Ark., by about 1200 rebels, cut their way out with a loss of two killed and twenty prisoners, a number of the latter being wounded. Successful skirmishes were had by detachments at Cypress Bayou, Austin, Cotton Plant, Springfield, West Point and other places.

January 27, 1865, the veterans and recruits of the Regiment were consolidated into nine companies and those of the 15th Illinois Cavalry into three companies and all re-organized into the Tenth Illinois Veteran Volunteer Cavalry.

The Regiment being ordered to New Orleans, La., left Brownsville, Ark., March 16, 1865, and taking boats at Duvall's Bluff, Ark., was at Grenville, La., April 1.

Upon receipt of intelligence of the assassination of President Lincoln, April 15, the Regiment was ordered into the city of New Orleans and as a police force was given complete control. Its prompt and energetic action doubtless prevented a scene of confusion and bloodshed and made the city one of the most quiet in the Union on that eventful day, winning from the Commanding General a high compliment in general orders.

While at Greenville the rebel ram Webb passed New Orleans in its endeavor to get to sea; finding this impossible she run ashore about ten miles below the city, where her crew, attempting escape in the swamps, was with one exception captured by a detachment from the Regiment, in pursuit.

June 6, 1865, the Regiment was ordered by boat up Red River and on the 17th was at Shreveport, La.

It left Shreveport July 8, 1865, under command of Lieut. Col. Carmichael, as part of the Second Brigade, Colonel James Stuart, First Cavalry Division, Major General Merritt, and arrived at San Antonio, Tex., August 1 following. From San Antonio several lengthy expeditions were made into the surrounding country after Indians, but its stay there was one of general idleness.

November 22d, 1865, the Regiment was mustered out of the service and being sent North via Galveston and New Orleans, reached Camp Butler, January 1, 1866, where, the members receiving their final pay and discharges January 6. It was disbanded, thus ending the career of a Regiment, that not being placed in the theatre of war where brilliant actions are shown, it at all times performed faithfully and well whatever duty was given it to do. It traveled as many miles, was without rations as many days, built as many miles of corduroy road, and cheerfully bore as many hardships as any regiment..

All commissioned officers of the Tenth and Fifteenth Illinois Volunteer Cavalry, not herein designated, will be mustered out of service.

The consolidated command will embrace all enlisted men of said regiments retained in service under War Department Circular 36th, of 1864, except members of Company M, Fifteenth Illinois Cavalry Volunteers. No reports having been received, the station and status of this Company is unknown. It is supposed to have been mustered out of service; and should any men belonging thereto report for duty, they will be attached, as "unassigned," to Company M, Tenth Illinois Cavalry Volunteers.

By command of Major General J. J. REYNOLDS.

JOHN LEVERING, A. A. G.

HISTORY OF ELEVENTH CAVALRY.

Robert G. Ingersoll, of Peoria, and Basil D. Meeks, of Wodford county, obtained permission to raise a Regiment of Cavalry, and recruiting commenced in October, 1861. The Regiment was recruited from the counties of Peoria, Fulton, Tazewell, Woodford, Marshall, Stark, Knox, Henderson and Warren.

Recruits commenced going into camp at Camp Lyon, Peoria, about Nov. 1, 1861. Twelve full companies were recruited and mustered into the United States service by Capt. C. B. Watson, of the Fourteenth U. S. Infantry, mustering officer, on Dec. 20, 1861, when they were mounted. They remained at Camp Lyon until Feb. 22, 1862, when they broke camp and marched to Benton Barracks, Mo., where they arrived March 3, and were shortly after armed with revolvers and sabres, one Battalion receiving carbines.

On March 25 the first Battalion, under Maj. Puterbaugh, embarked on a boat, and on the 26th the remainder of the Regiment followed.

The First Battalion landed at Crump's Landing, Tennessee River, April 1, and joined the forces of Gen. Lew. Wallace. The remainder of the Regiment landed the same day at Pittsburg Landing, and camped about two miles from there. On the 4th were out a short distance on a scout, and their first experience under fire was when the fighting commenced on the 6th. Early on the morning of the 6th the Regiment lost several men in killed and wounded; among the killed was First Lieut. Richard Burns, of Company F.

On the morning of the 7th Second Lieut. Aquilla J. Davis, of Company H, was wounded and the Regiment met with a severe loss in killed and wounded.

The Regiment was on duty between Pittsburg Landing and Corinth up to the capture of Corinth, and was in the celebrated raid in the rear of Corinth when the railroad track was torn up at Purdie.

It was in Tennessee and North Mississippi; was in the fight at Bolivar, Tenn., and met with a severe loss in a fight at Davis Bridge, on the Hatchie River.

It was also in the 3 days' fight at Corinth and Iuka, in Oct. 1862. The winter of '62 and '63 the Regiment was stationed at Jackson, Tenn., and met Forrest's advance at Lexington on Dec. 18, '62. In this engagement Col. R. G. Ingersoll, Maj. Kerr, Capt. Shepard, Capt. O'Hara, Lieut. Wagoner, Lieut. Cornell, and Lieut. Slater were captured. The loss in killed and wounded was severe and about 100 men were taken prisoners; the officers and men paroled by Gen. Forrest the next day. The remainder of the Regiment was in the fight the next day, Dec. 19, at Jackson, the 20th at Humboldt, the 31st at Parker's Cross Roads, and followed Forrest to the Tennessee River at Clifton. The Regiment at this time was reduced to less than 300 effective men, and 200 horses, fit for service. It moved from Jackson to Grand Junction, Tenn., and was stationed along the Memphis and Charleston Railroad, making numerous raids into the country south, and again met with severe loss in killed, wounded and prisoners at Hudsonville, Miss., on June 21, '63, in an engagement with Gen. Chalmers' cavalry. A great many sick, disabled, and paroled, having been exchanged, returned to the Regiment, and it was in a little better condition when ordered, Sept. 17, '63, to Memphis. From there it embarked on boats and reached Vicksburg, Miss., Sept. 24. The next day moved to Messenger's Ford, on the Big Black River, and was engaged in scouting. In Oct. '63, took part in the expedition under Gen. McPherson to Canton, Miss.; had a great many skirmishes with the rebels on Big Black River. Took part in the march of Gen. Sherman to Meridian, Miss., in Feb. and March, '64, in which it captured one piece of artillery, which was brought to Springfield, Ill., when the Regiment returned on Veteran furlough. Most of the Regiment re-enlisted as Veterans for three years, and were mustered in as such, Dec. 20, 1863, at Vicksburg, Miss., by Lieut. W. C. G. Hide, Fifty-third Ill. Infantry.

The Regiment left Vicksburg about the last of March for home, on a Veteran furlough of 30 days and again returned to Vicksburg, Miss.; were engaged in scouting through the spring and summer, destroyed the R. R. track north of Jackson, Miss., for a long distance and burned all bridges of any size. At this time they were with Gen. Osburn, and were in the fight at Yazoo City, in July, 1864, where they co-operated with Elliot's Marine Brigade to relieve Col. Coats, with the Eleventh Infantry, who was besieged in that city by the rebels under Gen. Wirt Adams. Late in the fall of '64 the Regiment left Vicksburg on boats, and landed at a point on the east bank of the river, 50 miles below. Marched first in an easterly direction, and by a circuitous route reached Natchez, where the Brigade embarked on boats, and landing a few miles above Baton Rouge, marched rapidly east and north. Engaged in a fight at Woodville, La., in which a Battery of 6 guns was captured and about 100 prisoners. Marched to Mississippi River with guns and prisoners, and from there to Natchez, then embarked on boats and landed at Vicksburg, and a short time afterward left in boats for Memphis, Tenn. Here the non-Veterans and most of the officers were mustered out. During the winter, the Regiment was absent in Arkansas on one trip of 20 days; on returning took part in raid from Memphis, January, 1865, by way of Grand Junction south, destroying the R. R. and had a sharp fight at Egypt Station, losing several in killed and wounded; then continued south; reaching Vicksburg, returned by boat to Memphis, and soon moved along the line of the Memphis and Charleston R. R. between Memphis and Grand Junction, with Headquarters at Lagrange, where it remained until ordered to Memphis to be mustered out. On September 30, 1865, was mustered out, and started for Springfield, Ill., October 2, where it was paid and discharged about October 20.

Company G was detached from the Regiment in the summer of 1862, and never rejoined them. Of the original officers of the Regiment who were mustered in at Camp Lyon, only six remained on the rolls when the Regiment was mustered out, as follows:

Col. Otto Funk, mustered in as Capt. Company A.

Lieut. Col. Aquilla J. Davis, mustered in as 2d Lieut. Company H.

Major Philip E. Elliot, mustered in as 1st Lieut. Company E.

Major Theophilus Schearer, mustered in as 2d Lieut. Company A.

Surgeon Robert F. Stratton, mustered in as Asst. Surgeon.

Capt. John H. McFarland, mustered in as 2d Lieut. Company K.

Capt. McFarland was sick when mustered out at Memphis, Tenn., was not able to be moved, and died two days after.

HISTORY OF TWELFTH CAVALRY.

The Twelfth Cavalry was organized at Camp Butler in February, 1862, and remained there guarding rebel prisoners until June 25, when it was mounted, and was sent to Martinsburg, Va.

The first time the Twelfth met the enemy was after the evacuation of Winchester, by General White, of Chicago. It had become necessary, therefore, that the forces at Martinsburg should establish their outposts. Lieutenant Colonel Davis was placed in command of these stations. About five miles from the camp, on the Martinsburg and Winchester pike, on the morning of the 5th of September, 1862, he scouted the country as far as Bunker Hill, where he came up with the enemy's cavalry, in numbers far superior to his own. These were in strong position, but the scouting party, by a vigorous charge, routed them, and drove them several miles, killing, wounding and capturing a considerable number.

On Saturday morning, the 7th, at day break, the enemy, having been largely reinforced, and desiguing to capture Colonel Davis and his command, made a bold attempt to get to his rear, and cut him off from his camp at Martinsburg. Anticipating this movement, Colonel Davis sent out a small party, under Lieutenant Logan, to reconnoitre. This detachment was surrounded, but the men succeeded in cutting their way through the enemy, and again joined the Colonel, who immediately despatched a message to Martinsburg for reinforcements. Captain Thomas W. Grosvenor (afterwards Major and Lieutenant Colonel,) commanding Company A, with forty men, was immediately ordered forward, to be followed by the remainder of the Twelfth as soon as they could be got ready. As soon as the Captain reported, Colonel Davis ordered him out at once to meet the enemy. He drove several squads of rebels from ambush, in the woods and roadsides, until he reached Darkesville, when he met the enemy in force, to the number of eight hundred. As the little band of Federal cavalry approached the enemy, the latter fired upon them at short range a most terrific volley, severely wounding the Captain, and killing Lieutenant Luff's horse, thus leaving the company without a commander. Colonel Davis led the men in person, driving the enemy until their retreat became a rout, and the forty men literally masters of the field, the enemy running away beyond Winchester, before he could be rallied. In this engagement, the rebels lost 25 killed and 50 prisoners, while there was no loss on the side of the forty men.

A few days subsequent, the Twelfth rejoined General White's command, and with it fell back before the superior numbers of the enemy to Harper's Ferry.

On the following Sunday, Colonel Davis left Harper's Ferry, with his command, and struck across the country, in the direction of Hagerstown, capturing and burning a train of 60 wagons, and soon after joined General McClellan, at Sharpsburg.

While in camp at Sharpsburg, the Twelfth was reinforced by two companies, composing the McClellan Dragoons, which had been doing duty as a body guard to the General-in-Chief. This increased to ten companies. The Twelfth was assigned to General Averill's Brigade, and under that officer made several expeditions, until McClellan was relieved from the command of the army, when the Twelfth was sent on picket at Williamsport, and Dam No. 4, on the Upper Potomac.

On the 16th of November, 1862, the grand army began to move by parallel routes. The Twelfth Cavalry was called away from picket and assigned to Sigel's Army, and acted as its escort from Warrenton to Fredericksburg, frequently having severe brushes with scouting parties of J. E. B. Stuart's cavalry. After the disastrous battle of Fredericksburg the Twelfth was sent to Manassas and below, to observe the movements of Lee and Stuart. After performing this service, the Regiment was sent to Dumphries.

While there the enemy surprised the outpost pickets, and took about 50 of the Twelfth Illinois and First Maryland Cavalry prisoners, when a vigorous fight ensued, which continued all day, but the enemy was finally repulsed, with severe loss, having 25 or 30 killed, and about 40 wounded, while our loss was but 3 killed and 8 wounded.

The Twelfth performed a conspicuous part in the celebrated "Stoneman" raid. On the 3rd of May, Lieutenant Colonel Davis received orders to penetrate the Fredericksburg railroad, and if possible the Virginia Central, and to destroy communications between Richmond and Lee's Army, then confronting Hooker, on the Rappahannock. The Twelfth began to march before day break, passing down the bank of the South Anna, through a region never before occupied by our forces. It burned one bridge and dispersed a party of mounted guerrillas, who made a poor attempt to oppose it. The first line of railway was struck at Ashland. Lieutenant Mitchell, with a party of about a dozen men, was sent ahead to occupy the place. He dashed into the village and took it without loss.

When the remainder of the Regiment came up, the boys were set to work cutting the telegraph wires, tearing up the railroad track burning a bridge. While at this work a train of cars approached from Fredericksburg, seven of which were filled with 250 sick and wounded officers and soldiers. Colonel Davis after receiving from them their version of the battle of Chancellorsville, paroled them.

The engine was rendered useless, and after destroying a wagon train and a quantity of harness, and taking about 80 mules, the Regiment moved out of Ashland.

The Central railroad was struck at Hanover station, on the afternoon of the 5th. Thirty officers and men were captured at this station. The work of destroying the railroad there was as effectually done as it was at Ashland. The telegraph wires were cut, and the depot buildings, store houses, stables and a train of cars, were burned. During the night the Regiment marched to within seven miles of Richmond bivouacked until 8 o'clock the next morning, when it marched for Williamsburg.

At Tunstall station a train of cars, filled with infantry and three-gun battery, was run up there, with the intention of debarking and giving the Twelfth battle. Colonel Davis at once took measures to break through the force before the men could get out of the cars, or put the battery in position. He therefore brought up the two foremost squadrons, and ordered a charge, which was executed, Captain Reans, with Companies D and F, taking the lead. The charge was made most gallantly, but it was impossible, however, to break through. The Twelfth retired from the conflict with a loss of two killed and several wounded, among the latter Lieutenant Marsh, who was one of the foremost in the charge.

Failing to penetrate the enemy's line at this point, Colonel Davis determined to cross the Pamunkey and Mattaponi Rivers, and make for Gloucester Point.

He selected Phinkells Ferry, over the Pamunkey, and occupied it, after driving away a picket on the other side, with whom the Regiment exchanged shots. While enroute to Gloucester Point they captured 15 rebels and destroyed a large quantity of cavalry saddles, at King's and Queen's Court House, and a train of 18 wagons, loaded with corn and provisions, when near Saluda. In this raid the Regiment traveled a distance of over two hundred miles.

The total loss sustained by the Twelfth, in this most remarkable raid, was two commissioned officers and 33 enlisted men, while the Regiment brought with it 100 mules and 75 horses captured from the enemy. The amount of property destroyed was estimated at over $1,000,000.

A portion of the Twelfth remained at Gloucester Point while one Battalion was sent to General Dix, commanding at Fortress Monroe, and the remainder reported at Alexandria. The detachment which reported to General Dix made frequent excursions into the interior counties, for the purpose of suppressing a band of smugglers, who infested that district. On one of these expeditions General Wm. H. Lee, a son of Robt. E. Lee, was captured and taken to Fortress Monroe.

In June, the Regiment was brought together. Immediately after the battle of Beverly Ford, the Twelfth joined Pleasanton, and was assigned to the First Brigade of the First Division.

Buford's Division, without waiting to recover from the fatigue of the recent severe engagements, marched toward the Potomac from Aldie Gap, in the direction of Fredericksburg, where it arrived June 3. At an early hour on the 1st of July, General Buford fell upon the flanks of Longstreet's Corps, which was moving south from Carlisle, charging and recharging, and still repeating the operation, forcing a portion of the enemy at every onslaught to halt, and form line of battle. In this manner the rebels were not only sorely damaged by the loss of a large number of men killed and wounded, but their movements were greatly impeded, which gave General Meade an opportunity to push forward his lagging infantry, and get them into position for resistance. A Brigade of Pennsylvania militia and a battery of artillery, commanded by "Baldy" Smith, which had got into Longstreet's front, and were being hotly pressed, with every indication of falling prisoners were rescued from that unhappy fate by the daring west roughriders, under Davis, Medill and Chapman, who charged right into the face of the rebel infantry, and forced them to give up the pursuit. After this feat the Brigade fell back on the main body of the Division, and until 10 o'clock Buford continued to hold his position against Longstreet's entire Corps of infantry. At that hour he was relieved by the celebrated "Iron Brigade," of Wisconsin infantry, and the troops of the First Corps. On the 4th of July, when Lee's Army made its last grand attempt to retrieve its fortunes, the Brigade was hastened off toward Williamsport, with orders to seize the Ford and hold it against the enemy.

In the march from Gettysburg to Williamsport about 2,000 rebels were captured, and over 200 wagons and teams. The wagons were destroyed, and the mules driven to Washington.

On the 6th of July, the cavalry reached the vicinity of Williamsport, and being informed that the place was guarded by only one Regiment of Stuart's cavalry, the Eighth Illinois, and a portion of the Twelfth, rushed forward, driving out the enemy.

After the defeat and retreat of Lee at Gettysburg, the Twelfth followed the fortunes of the Army of the Potomac. It was present at the cavalry battles which occurred at Falling Waters, the Rapidan and at Stevensburg, in all of which it acquitted itself with its usual bravery. On the 20th of November it was relieved from duty with the Army of the Potomac, and ordered home to reorganize as Veterans. This distinguished privilege was awarded the Regiment by the Secretary of War, "for brilliant services in the field."

On the evening of the 28th of November, the Regiment reached Chicago, and was received from first to last with one grand burst of patriotic admiration and enthusiasm.

At the conclusion of the brief season of rest the Regiment, which had been recruited up to the maximum number of 1,256 officers and men, re-assembled at Camp Fry. On the 9th of February, 1864, the Regiment started for St. Louis, and went into camp there. Early in March it embarked on transports for New Orleans, and shortly after arriving there was ordered to join General Banks, on his retreat down the Red River. It participated in the different engagements of the retreat, losing a large number of men. Subsequently the Regiment was returned to New Orleans, and ordered to do picket duty on the Lafourche, from Donaldsville to Thibodeaux, La., continuing on this line during the summer.

In the early part of September the Regiment was ordered to report to General Lee, commanding the Cavalry Division at Baton Rouge, where it was actively employed in scouting and picket duty. In the early part of November the Twelfth (then brigaded with the Second Illinois Cavalry, the Brigade commanded by Colonel Davis and other cavalry Regiments, under General Lee, made an expedition to Liberty, Miss., where they had a severe action, driving the enemy and capturing a number of prisoners, cannon and small arms. Lieutenant Colonel Dix, in charge of the outposts, repulsed several attacks of the enemy. Subsequently the Regiment participated in General Davidson's expedition against Mobile; returned to Baton Rouge on the 7th of January, 1865; went up the river to Memphis, joining General Osband's Division. In the latter part of January, the Twelfth was a part of a raiding party through southeastern Arkansas. Returning to Memphis, it did scouting and picket duty until June, when it was ordered to join General Custer's Cavalry Division, at Alexandria, La. From there it marched with the Division to Hempstead, Tex., at which place it remained until sometime in September, when it marched to Houston, to Major General Mowet. From this time to the final mustering out of the Regiment, distributed in detachments, was actively employed in guard and escort duty.

While at Memphis the Twelfth Cavalry was consolidated into an 8 company organization, and the Fourth Cavalry, having previously been consolidated into a Battalion of 5 companies, was consolidated with the Twelfth Cavalry.

The Regiment was mustered out at Houston, Tex., on the 29th of May, 1866, and arrived at Springfield on the 14th of June, and on the 18th, it received final pay and discharge.

MEMORANDA OF COMPANIES H AND I.

Companies H and I were formerly known as the "McClellan Dragoons," and were assigned to the Twelfth Illinois Cavalry, in accordance with General Orders, No. 249, of December 25th, 1862, from these Headquarters.

Captain Gilbert's Company H, (formerly A. Cavalry, attached to Fifty-second Illinois Infantry, and subsequently detached therefrom and assigned as Company H, Twelfth Cavalry,) was assigned as Company G, Fifteenth Cavalry, in accordance with General Orders, No. 250, of December 25th, 1862, from these Headquarters.

HISTORY OF THIRTEENTH CAVALRY.

The Thirteenth Cavalry Regiment was organized at Camp Douglas, Illinois, in December, 1861, by Colonel J. W. Bell.

Moved to Benton Barracks, Missouri, where the Regiment was armed and equipped. Moved for the field, in February, 1862. Was on duty in southeast Missouri until June 1, 1862, when it joined General Curtis' army, at Jacksonport, Ark. Moved, with General Curtis, through Arkansas, taking part in the skirmishes of the campaign, to Helena, Ark. Returned, with General Curtis, to Missouri, in the fall of 1862, and was engaged with General Davidson in the campaign of southwest Missouri and northwest Arkansas, driving Marmaduke and his command from the State.

In July, 1863, the Regiment moved, with General Davidson's Cavalry Division, into Arkansas, taking part in the battles of Brownsville, August 24 and 25; Bayou Metre, 27th and 28th; Austin, August 31; and again at Bayou Metre, September 4. The Thirteenth was the first Regiment to enter Little Rock, on its capture, September 10, 1863, and was engaged in the pursuit of Price, to Red River.

In the spring of 1864, the Regiment accompanied General Steele in the expedition to Camden, taking prominent parts in the actions at Arkadelphia, Okolona, Little Missouri River, Prairie du Anne, Camden and Jenkins' Ferry, during the month of April.

After returning to Little Rock, the Regiment was engaged in many raids and scouts, and in skirmishing with the forces of Shelby and Marmaduke, defeating them at Clarendon and Pine Bluff. In the summer of 1864, the Regiment was stationed at Pine Bluff, in Colonel Clayton's Brigade, and engaged in scouting and picketing.

On January 25, 1865, the Cavalry Division having been discontinued, the Regiment was assigned to duty at the post of Pine Bluff. In April, detachments of the Regiment were sent to take possession of Monticello, Camden and Washington, leaving Headquarters at Pine Bluff.

Mustered out August 31, 1865, and received final pay and discharge at Springfield, Ill., Sept. 13, 1865.

ORDER OF CONSOLIDATION.

HEADQUARTERS ST. LOUIS DISTRICT.

ST. LOUIS, May 20, 1863.

GENERAL ORDERS, 1
No. 13.

In accordance with orders received from Headquarters Department of the Missouri, the Thirteenth Illinois Cavalry will be consolidated immediately. The eight companies which now compose the Regiment will be consolidated into 63 companies, in accordance with Paragraph 2, General Orders, No. 86, War Department, and Major L. Lippert, Thirteenth Illinois Cavalry, is designated as the Major to be retained in command of the Battalion. Major Lippert will designate the proper company officers to be retained under the new organization.

In accordance with General Orders, No. 86, War Department, Colonel J. W. Bell, Thirteenth Illinois Cavalry, will be mustered out of the service of the United States, the command, by consolidation, being less than that to which his rank entitles him.

Lieutenant Colonel Theodore Hartman will also be mustered out of the service.

Major Charles Bell, Thirteenth Illinois Cavalry, will also be mustered out of the service, in accordance with General Orders, No. 86, War Department.

Captain D. W. Cheek, Thirteenth Infantry, U. S. A., and Assistant Commissary of Musters, will proceed immediately to Pilot Knob Mo., to carry out the provisions of this order.

By order of Brigadier General DAVIDSON.

HENRY C. TILBEBROWN,

*JOHN W. JANUARY was a prisoner of war at Andersonville, Ga., and Florence, S. C., for about sixteen months. From the effects of scurvy superinduced by starvation he lost his feet, which he himself heroically amputated with a pocket knife, no surgeon in the prison being willing to perform the operation. He arrived at David's Island, New York, a mere skeleton, weighing but 45 pounds, and after seven months' treatment in hospital was restored to bodily health. All things considered, MR. JANUARY'S case is perhaps the most notable example of nerve and badly suffering in the annals of the War. He is yet (March 17, 1902) living, the father of a large family. [Adj't Gen'l.]

HISTORY OF FOURTEENTH CAVALRY.

The Fourteenth Cavalry was recruited and organized in the fall and winter of 1862, with headquarters at Peoria. January 7, 1863, the First and Second Battalions were mustered, and February 6 the Third Battalion.

In February and March, 1863, the Regiment received its horses and equipments, and was placed under thorough discipline and well drilled in tactics. March 28, it started for the front. April 17, it arrived at Glasgow, Ky., where it was brigaded. In two hours thereafter the Brigade started to attack a rebel force at Celind, on the Cumberland River, marching day and night. On the 19th it struck the enemy, captured the town and destroyed immense supplies. Glasgow being headquarters, the Regiment was almost constantly in the saddle scouting.

In June it pursued and attacked Colonel Hamilton's rebel force near Turkey Neck Bend, driving the enemy into the mountains in Tennessee. It took a number of prisoners, several pieces of artillery, 600 stand of arms, a wagon train filled with supplies and the commander's papers.

It pursued the rebel raider John Morgan from July 4, until he was captured, the expedition covering 2,100 miles; it took part in many of the skirmishes and battles on this raid and was especially conspicuous at the battle of Buffington Island, and in the six days pursuit thereafter, and at the capture of Morgan himself.

On the 18th of August, it started on the East Tennessee campaign. It reached Knoxville September 1, two days in advance of the main column, capturing the rear guard of the enemy, and a large amount of stores and munitions of war.

September 9, at the battle and taking of Cumberland Gap, it was active in closing in on the enemy, taking the rebel force and an immense amount of supplies. On the 18th, it pursued and routed Colonel Carter's rebel command as far east as Bristol, killing and capturing many and securing the rebel train with a large quantity of arms, ammunition and supplies. The next day it drove the enemy through Bristol into Virginia, and again engaged him, on the 20th and 22d of September, fighting and driving him at every point. On the 11th of October another severe engagement was fought by the Regiment, and on the 14th of October it again drove him from his cover. During the siege of Knoxville the Regiment did not suffer itself to be cooped up, but operated outside continuously harassing and annoying the rebel forces.

December 19, the Brigade was attacked by a greatly superior force from Longstreet's command. Retreating with skill it inflicted great loss on the enemy, and suffered severely itself. After the siege of Knoxville, the Fourteenth Regiment was closely in pursuit of Longstreet's forces.

On the 14th of December, at Bean Station, the Cavalry alone had an engagement, the enemy's entire Corps attacking and losing 800 men. Here the Battery manned by men of the Fourteenth did signal service. The next day the fight was renewed and the enemy was again severely punished.

December 24, the Cavalry was consolidated under General Sturgis. At Dandridge a severe battle was fought. January 30, 1864, the Fourteenth alone, out of a large number of regiments in the Corps, was designated to fight "Thomas' Legion" of whites and Cherokee Indians in North Carolina. February 2, with the brass pieces, after following a mountainous old Indian trail, it surprised the Legion, killing and capturing the greater part. General Grant in a special dispatch highly complimented the Regiment for this work. May 27, at Cittico, Thomas having re-organized his command, attacked a portion of the Fourteenth guarding the mountain passes, but was handsomely repulsed.

June 13, it started to join General Stoneman's command organized for the Atlanta campaign, reaching the latter on the 19th. July 27, it left Lost Mountain on the famous Macon raid, reaching the city on the 30th, destroying a large amount of public property and capturing many prisoners. At Sunshine Church, after a hot battle with the enemy, General Stoneman decided to surrender his command, Colonel Capron, with the Fourteenth, first receiving permission to cut his way out. This he did, taking his command with him, with success. August 3, at 1 o'clock in the morning, Colonel Capron supposing he was beyond the reach of the enemy, ordered a halt. But he was betrayed by a treacherous guide and the men were attacked about daylight. Being without sleep for seven days and nights they could not be aroused. In this condition many were killed or captured. Those who escaped were hunted by rebel soldiers, guerrillas, citizens and bloodhounds. They came in singly and in squads for weeks. One party traveled over 400 miles before reaching our lines. On this raid the First Battalion was detached, leaving the command, July 29, to make a flank and front movement. In 60 hours, night and day, it marched 160 miles, destroying 4 depots, 500 passenger and freight cars, 40 engines, many miles of railroad track, public buildings, heavy military stores, many bridges, including the great Oconee bridge. Several times it marched near large bodies of the enemy, at one time passing between the rebel picket and Milledgeville, not over half a mile from the city, in which was a large rebel force. It rejoined the Regiment August 1, in time to share in the great disaster of the 3d. After this raid the scattered fragments joined the line of battle in front of Atlanta, having the honor to enter the city with our advance forces.

September 15, the Regiment returned to Kentucky, where it was remounted and re-equipped. November 8, it arrived at Waynesboro, near the Tennessee River, where it disputed Hood's advance. The contest continued three days, every foot of ground being disputed, fighting on the 23d, a strong engagement. On the 24th another fight occurred, when the infantry came to the rescue.

On the 26th, while guarding Duck River fords, the command, at dark, found itself cut off and surrounded. In a gallant charge the Regiment cut its way out. At Franklin it was on the left wing of our army near the town. At Nashville it was on the right, aiding in crushing, pursuing and capturing Bragg's Army.

The battle of Nashville, including the pursuit, capture and destruction of Hood's great army, practically closed the fighting and other aggressive work of the Regiment. With the Brigade, it was afterwards stationed at Pulaski, Tenn., performing the ordinary camp and guard duty, where headquarters continued until it went to Nashville to be mustered out. This occurred July 31, 1865. Without considering the duty done by detachments, the main column of the Fourteenth, during its term of service, marched over 10,000 miles. It was mustered out July 31, 1865.

ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE,
WASHINGTON, March 9, 1865.

GENERAL:

I have the honor to inform you that Company M, Fifteenth Illinois Cavalry, (Captain Huntley's Company) was mustered out of service December 27, 1862, by Captain D. W. Cheek, Thirteenth U. S. Infantry, in accordance with Special Order No. 80, Headquarters Department of the Missouri.

I am, General, very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

SAM BRECK,

Assistant Adjutant General.

HISTORY OF FIFTEENTH CAVALRY.

The companies that composed the Fifteenth Cavalry Regiment were independent companies attached to Infantry Regiments, and acted as such.

Moved with the army from Cairo in the spring of 1862, up the Tennessee River to Fort Henry. Disembarked and was moving to the rear, when the Fort was evacuated by the rebels; took possession, but remained there a few days only.

Moved, under command of General Grant, to Fort Donelson. Fort surrendered after a siege of three days. Moved with the fleet up Tennessee River to Pittsburg Landing. Participated in the Shiloh battle, April 6 and 7, 1862.

Moved with the army in the siege of Corinth. Fort evacuated about May 1, 1862. Ordered from there to Jackson, Tenn. There and then organized into Stewart's Battalion, commanded by Colonel Conrine.

Moved in the month of November to Corinth, Miss.

In the spring of 1863, organized the Fifteenth Regiment. George A. Bacon was appointed Colonel. F. T. Gilbert, Lieutenant Colonel. We were under command of General G. M. Dodge. Scouted through the States of Mississippi, Alabama, Kentucky and Tennessee, till October, 1863; moved by the way of Memphis. Remained three weeks under command of General Hurlbut, thence to Helena, Ark., arriving about the month of November, 1863. Then, under command of General Buford of Illinois, did post duty and long severe scouting through Arkansas and Mississippi.

August 10, 1864, ordered to Springfield, Ill., to be discharged. By expiration of term of service, mustered out August 25, 1864.

The recruits who were enlisted in 1862, were consolidated with the Tenth Illinois Cavalry. Moved to San Antonio, Tex., and mustered out of service.

HISTORY OF COMPANY I, FIFTEENTH CAVALRY.

---

This Company was organized at Aurora, Kane county, Ill., Aug. 2, 1861, by Captain Albert Jenks, and was mustered in, September 23, as Cavalry, attached to Thirty-sixth Illinois Volunteers.

On 24th September, moved from camp, and reported to the Regiment, at Rolla, Mo. On 31st December, reported to Colonel Carr, commanding Third Illinois Cavalry, and moved to Bennett's Mills. On February 10, 1862, moved to Osage Springs, Mo., arriving there on 20th. March 2d, moved, with Siegel's Division, to near Bentonville, losing 4 men taken prisoners. Was engaged, March 7 and 8, at Pea Ridge.

Moved, with the army, to Salem. May 1, ordered to White River. Returned to Batesville, on the 9th. Was engaged in the movements of Asboth's Division, and arrived at Cape Girardeau, Mo., May 24. Moved to Hamburg Landing, Tenn. Was escort for General Rosecrans, at battle of Corinth, October 3 and 4.

December 25, 1862, was assigned to the Fifteenth Illinois Cavalry. On 9th June, 1863, moved to Memphis. May 20, landed at Chickasaw Bayou, and was engaged in the operations against Vicksburg, with the Regiment. August 17, moved to Carrollton, La. September 5, moved, with Fourth Division, Thirteenth Army Corps, to Morganzia, La., and was engaged in the campaign, General Herron commanding. October 10, returned to Carrollton. 15th, moved to Brasher, La., and on 17th, to New Iberia, La. Was engaged in scouting, and various expeditions, reporting to Brigadier General A. L. Lee, as escort, January 5, 1864.

On February 11, the company moved for Illinois, for veteran furlough, and, on 26th, the men were furloughed at Chicago, Ill.

All commissioned officers of the Tenth and Fifteenth Illinois Volunteer Cavalry, not herein designated, will be mustered out of service.

The consolidated command will embrace all enlisted men of said regiments retained in service under War Department Circular 36, of 1864, except members of Company M, Fifteenth Illinois Cavalry Volunteers. No reports having been received, the station and status of this Company is unknown. It is supposed to have been mustered out of service; and should any men belonging thereto report for duty, they will be attached, as "unassigned," to Company M, Tenth Illinois Cavalry Volunteers.

By command of Major General J. J. REYNOLDS.

JOHN LEVERING, A. A. A. G.

HISTORY OF THIELEMAN'S CAVALRY.

This company was organized in Chicago in June, 1861, by Captain Christian Thieleman, with Berthold Marshner as 1st, and Matthew Marx as 2d Lieutenants.

In July the company was ordered to St. Louis, where it was encamped near the fair grounds for about two weeks, then to Paducah, Ky. While at this place a raid was made on a recruiting camp some sixty miles from Paducah, but without results, the camp having been hastily vacated.

In October a detachment was ordered to Smithland, Ky., at the mouth of the Cumberland River, and remained there as its garrison throughout the winter, scouting thoroughly the country toward Forts Donelson and Henry. While the company was thus divided permission was obtained to recruit a second company to be known as Company B, Thieleman's Illinois Cavalry, the first being designated Company A. The larger number of this new company were Kentucky men, a few coming from across the Ohio River from Illinois. The Captain was now promoted Major, commanding squadron. The officers for Company A were Berthold Marshner, Captain; James W. Lavigne, 1st and I. L. L. Ponds, 2d Lieutenant; and for Company B, Matthew Marx, Captain; Milo Thieleman, 1st and George Hamilton 2d Lieutenant. The squadron was ordered to Pittsburg Landing, Tenn., in March, 1862. Arrived one week before the frustrated attempt to drive in, and drown in the Tennessee River the sturdy sons of the North. During the battle, April 6 and 7, the squadron did service as orderlies, escorts and "back-stops" for some regiments that showed disposition to move rearward when not so ordered.

Moved with the army, snail-like, to Corinth, Miss., doing picket and vidette duty, and scouting the country toward and beyond Bethel and Purdy. In the latter place the squadron had a lively passage at arms with four companies of confederates, and defeated them. From Corinth to Bolivar (where we were encamped for two months), and from Bolivar to Memphis, where the squadron performed provost duty during the winter of 1862-1863. With Sherman to Young's Point, Milliken's Bend, Grand Gulf, Raymond, Champion Hills, Baker's Creek, Black River and Vicksburg. Just as the squadron rode on the brow of a hill, where the first view of the confederate works was obtained, Lieutenant Lavigne, at the head of the column, received a ball through his lungs and shattered his backbone. It is supposed that he was the first man killed in the rear of Vicksburg.

During the siege of Vicksburg the squadron performed escort duty for General W. T. Sherman, orderlies being detailed for various Divisions and Brigade commanders in the Fifteenth Army Corps.

After the surrender of Vicksburg, accompanied Sherman to Jackson, then to quarters on the Big Black River.

Having prepared for winter quarters, we were unceremoniously ordered up the Mississippi to Memphis, thence overland to Chattanooga.

Sixteen men of this command were with General Sherman at his memorable little fight at Collierville, where he held the 5,000 confederates under General Chalmers in check for eight hours with about six hundred men.

Present at Mission Ridge, and participated in the cavalry pursuit after that engagement.

Then on to Knoxville, where the 5,000 cavalry from Grant's Army compelled Longstreet to raise the siege.

Ordered in winter quarters at Huntsville, Ala.

In February, 1864, ten men re-enlisted as Veterans, and about the same time the squadron was consolidated with other companies, and were designated the Sixteenth Illinois Cavalry.

HISTORY OF SIXTEENTH CAVALRY.

The Sixteenth Cavalry was composed principally of Chicago men. Thieleman's and Schambeck's Cavalry companies, raised at the outset of the war, formed the nucleus of the Regiment. The former company served as Gen. Sherman's body guard for some time. Captain Thieleman was made a Major and authorized to raise a Battalion. Thieleman and Schambeck's companies were thenceforth known as Thieleman's Battalion.

In September, 1862, the War Department authorized the extension of the Battalion to a Regiment and on the 11th of June, 1863, the Regimental organization was completed. In October, 1863, the Sixteenth Cavalry was ordered to Knoxville, Tenn., and a portion of it participated in the memorable defense of that place in November and December. A detachment under Col. Thieleman constituted the garrison at Cumberland Gap, and one Battalion, under Maj. Beers, was sent up Powell's Valley in the direction of Jonesville, Va. On the 3d of January, 1864, this Battalion was attacked by three Brigades of Longstreet's command, and after maintaining its ground for ten hours, against five times its own number, and losing heavily in killed and wounded, its ammunition having become exhausted, it was compelled to surrender. The loss of the Regiment upon this occasion was 356 men and 56 officers. Long afterward the Rebels exchanged less than one-third of these prisoners, sent them back in the most wretched condition from the horrors of the prison pen at Andersonville. The others were victims of the frightful tortures to which they were there subjected, and now lie buried in the National Cemetery at that place.

After the conclusion of the East Tennessee campaign, the Regiment was, in February, 1864, ordered to report at Camp Nelson, at Mt. Sterling, Ky., where it was remounted, and in the latter part of April it left that place for Georgia. It then constituted a part of the Cavalry Corps under Gen. Stoneman.

It arrived at Red Clay, Ga., May 10, and on the 12th was engaged in the battle of Vornell Station, where it lost one officer, Lieutenant Kerfurth, wounded and captured, and twelve men. It was there on duty almost every day, from that time until after the fall of Atlanta—a period of nearly four months, during which it participated in the battles of Rocky Face Ridge, Buzzard's Roost, Resaca, Kingston, Cassville, Carterville, Allatoona, Kenesaw, Lost Mountain, Mines Ridge, Powder Springs, Chattahoochie, and various engagements in front of Atlanta and Jonesboro. Returning to Decatur, Ga., it remained there until September 14, and was then ordered to Nicholasville, Ky., to again remount. On the 22d of October it left that place for Nashville, and was ordered thence to Pulaski, thence to Fayetteville and back, and then, after a few days, to Waynesboro, near the Tennessee River. It had been there but three days when Hood crossed the river at Florence and below, and the Brigade in which the Sixteenth was then serving was ordered to fall back. On this retreat it kept up a running fight with the enemy for three days and nights, until it reached Columbia. While the main army remained here, the Sixteenth was sent up Duck River to defend some fords at which it was supposed the enemy would attempt to cross. The expectation was realized, and in the six hours' engagement which followed the Regiment held its position triumphantly against a vastly superior force of the rebels until dusk, when it learned that a large body of the enemy had crossed the Duck River and got completely in its rear. The only support the Regiment then had was part of a company from the Eighth Michigan, and one company from the Eighth Iowa. The enemy had two Brigades in line of battle across the pike, and directly in the rear.

The night was dark, and our boys approached quietly until within one hundred yards of the enemy, when the charge was sounded, and the lines of the enemy were broken.

The Sixteenth next participated in the battle of Franklin, and in various skirmishes between there and Nashville.

It engaged in the two days' battles at the latter place, and in the pursuit of the enemy to the Tennessee River. It then returned to Pulaski and there went into camp, but most of the Regiment was kept on scouting duty from that time until March, 1865. It then moved to Springfield, and in May returned to Pulaski, whence most of it was sent to Holton, Courtland and Decatur, Alabama.

On the 15th of June, it returned to Pulaski, and on the 2d of July it was ordered to Franklin, where it remained, scouring the country in all directions, until ordered to Nashville for muster out. It arrived in Chicago on the 23d of August, 1865, for final payment and discharge.

During its term of service the Sixteenth marched about 5,000 miles and engaged in thirty-one general battles, and numerous skirmishes. At its muster out the only members left of the original Field and Staff officers were Colonel Smith, Captain Ford and Lieutenant Finger. The original force of the Regiment was 1,200 men. It received 100 recruits, and at its discharge could muster only 285 men, showing a casualty list of nearly one thousand.

In January, 1865, Captain Hiram S. Hanchett, of this Regiment, was captured at Mount Pleasant, Tennessee, and taken to the rebel prison at Cahaba, Alabama. There he organized the sixty men he found in prison, systematized a plan of escape, and this band of braves overpowered the guard, broke out and marched for two days, fighting all the while, hoping to reach the river and capture a steamboat on which they might escape. After that struggle, however, they were overpowered and then taken back. A number of the fugitives were killed, but for Captain Hanchett a worse fate was reserved. He was enclosed in a wooden box eight feet square with one aperture, through which his food was passed.

Here he remained until the rebels heard General Wilson was coming, and deemed it was best to shift their quarters.

Poor Hanchett was, by over a month of this confinement, reduced to too feeble a state to move, and they blew out his brains when they left.

HISTORY OF SEVENTEENTH CAVALRY.

The Seventeenth Cavalry Regiment Illinois Volunteers was organized under special authority from the War Department, issued September 11, 1863, to Hon. John F. Farnsworth. The rendezvous was established at St. Charles, Kane county, Ill. By the approval of the Governor of the State, the Colonelcy of the Regiment was offered to John L. Beveridge, then Major in the Eighth Illinois Cavalry, who assumed the work of recruitment and organization, and opened the rendezvous November 15, 1863. Eight companies were mustered in January 22, 1864. Four other companies were mustered in and the organization of the Regiment completed, February 12, 1864.

By the close of April next, 650 horses had been brought in by the men, under instruction from the Cavalry Bureau, and sold to the Government.

May 3, 1864, the Regiment moved, under orders from the General-in-Chief, to report to Major General Rosecrans, commanding the Department of Missouri, at St. Louis, Mo.

The Regiment was sent to Jefferson Barracks, Mo., where 1,100 sets of horse equipments were received. From there it moved to Alton, Ill., and relieved the Thirteenth Illinois Cavalry in guarding the Military Prison at that place. For this purpose 500 muskets were drawn from the arsenal.

Early in June, following, the First Battalion was ordered to St. Louis, and the Second Battalion followed immediately. Both being fully mounted, were ordered at once to North Missouri District.

The First Battalion, Lieutenant Colonel Dennis J. Hynes commanding, proceeded to St. Joseph, Mo., where the commanding officer reported in person to General Fisk, commanding District of North Missouri.

The Second Battalion, Major Lucius C. Matlack commanding, was assigned by General C. B. Fisk to the post of Glasgow, Mo.

From this period, for four months, the three Battalions were separate and remote from each other. Their history will be most fitly given in separate narratives, extending over the time intervening and up to the time of re-union with the regimental headquarters.

OF THE FIRST BATTALION.

Lieutenant Colonel Hynes, being detailed as Chief of Cavalry, and attached to General Fisk's staff, the first squadron (Companies A and B,) under Major H. Hillard, was ordered to Weston, Mo. The second squadron (Companies C and D,) was ordered to remain at St. Joseph, Mo., Captain J. D. Butts in command.

The duties of the Battalions were mainly escort and provost guard duty, for three months; not always at the same localities, yet always within the District of North Missouri.

In September, 1864, the invasion of Missouri, by Price's army of rebels, increased the responsibility of their work, by the increased restlessness of the rebel sympathisers around them: but no actual conflict with the enemy occurred in that district.

Late in September, the second squadron (Companies C and D,) commanded by Captain Jones, was moved over the country to Jefferson City, Mo., and here rejoining the Regiment, took part in the defense of the city, October 6 and 7, 1864.

The first squadron (Companies A and B) remained in North Missouri, during the winter, and joined the Regiment in June, 1865. Lieutenant Colonel Hynes and Major Hillard had been ordered to the Regiment, in February and March, preceeding, while the Headquarters was at Pilot Knob, Mo.

OF THE SECOND BATTALION.

From July, 1864, for three months, Major Matlack, with the Battalion (Companies E, F, G and H,) occupied the post of Glasgow. This was adjacent to the strongholds of numerous guerrilla bands, whose influence with rebel sympathisers, and their inroads upon the loyal inhabitants and interruptions of United States telegraph lines, required scouting parties constantly on the road for a distance of from 30 to 60 miles. Threatened attacks upon the post and actual assaults upon the out-posts kept the entire detachment busy, day and night.

Parties were sent out under orders from General Douglas, commanding Eighth Sub-District, District of North Missouri, to remote points, and frequent fights ensued. In every instance but one—when a score of the Seventeenth men fought five times their number—their success in punishing the enemy was decided, yet not without the loss of a few killed and wounded. Among these fights may be named one near Allen, on the North Missouri Railroad, in July, 1864; one near the Porsche Hills; and a third near Rocheport. None of these demand a more extended notice.

The reported presence of the rebel Colonel Thornton, with 1,500 men, induced an order from General Rosecrans, through General Fisk, for a movement from Glasgow, northward and westward, in search of Thornton. Pursuant thereto, Major Matlack moved, with all his mounted force and a squadron of the Ninth Cavalry, Missouri State Militia, to Chillicothe, on the Hannibal and St. Joseph Railroad. Here, reinforced by 500 militia, the column was divided into three detachments, and thoroughly scoured the whole country, from the railroad, southward and westward, to the river. No enemy was found, but the presence of the troops reassured the Union men of that country, and held their enemies in check. The distance traveled was 300 miles.

In September, 1864, the Second Battalion was ordered to move over the country, and report to General McNeil, commanding District of Rolla, at Rolla, Mo. It rejoined the Regiment at Jefferson City, with which its movements are thenceforward identified.

OF THE THIRD BATTALION.

From July, 1864, until late in August, of the same year, this Battalion, with Regimental Headquarters, remained at Alton, Ill. Being removed to Benton Barracks, and fully mounted, it was ordered, early in September, to Glasgow, Mo., but at Jefferson City its destination was changed, and joined by the Second Battalion, Colonel John L. Beveridge commanding, reported to General John McNeil, at Rolla, September 19, 1864, with the two Battalions. Here commenced an active and vigorous campaign, in which the movements of the Regiment were a unit.

When all communications between Rolla and St. Louis were interrupted by Price's Army, and General Ewing's small force had retired from Pilot Knob, after a brave resistance, Colonel Beveridge, with the Seventeenth, by order of General McNeil, moved out at noon, September 28, and, driving a cavalry force which appeared near Cuba, reached Leesburg the day following—33 miles distant—and saved General Ewing, with Colonel Fletcher (since Governor of Missouri) and their 700 men, from imminent peril of capture, and covered their return to Rolla, Mo.

Early in October, the Regiment moved from Rolla—a part of McNeil's Brigade—towards Jefferson City, reaching there in time to aid in constructing defenses and in repelling the attack of Price, October 6 and 7, where Companies "C" and "D" rejoined the Regiment.

The day following, General Pleasanton arrived from St. Louis, and organized the entire force—four thousand—as a Cavalry Division, under General Sanborn. Colonel Beveridge was placed in command of the Second Brigade, which included the Seventeenth Illinois Cavalry and the Third, Fifth and Ninth Missouri Cavalry.

Major Matlack commanded the Seventeenth, which took part in the attack made on Price, at Boonville, October 11, and which induced an early evacuation of that point by the rebels.

At Independence, the Seventeenth dismounted, was deployed on the left, and in support of the Thirteenth Missouri Cavalry, when the rear guard of the enemy was attacked and their artillery captured. This was October 22, 1864. Same day, at midnight, the Brigade left Independence, in the direction of Hickman's Mills, 12 miles distant, where the enemy was intercepted the next day, about noon. While the main column of the Brigade, under General McNeil, who had assumed command attacked near the head of the rebel column, the Seventeenth, Colonel Beveridge commanding, was ordered to form a separate column, and strike the enemy on the flank, one mile or more in the rear. By a rapid movement their flank was reached, but at a moment preceding an attack, which must have been a success, peremptory orders were received to return and support the battery in front. Two days after this, the Division, now under General Pleasanton's immediate orders, captured Major General Marmaduke, Brigadier General Cabel, ten rebel cannon, and more than a thousand prisoners, with their arms, at Mine Creek, Kan., having moved 70 miles within twenty-four hours.

The Seventeenth, with McNeil's Brigade, was hurried forward in pursuit of the retreating foe. Three times the pursuers formed in line of battle, but only in the last case did the enemy maintain his ground. Then the rebels had chosen their ground on an open prairie, and were quietly waiting the approach of the Union forces—a Brigade, now thinned down to 1,500 men, moving up to attack 15,000. Every man of this little band could see, and was seen by every man of the rebel army. The Seventeenth was made the guide for the whole line, of which it was the left. After a short, sharp engagement, and an attempt by the rebels to overwhelm its right, which was prevented by the arrival of two guns, which checked the rebels, an order came from General Pleasanton to charge along the whole line. After some delay, the command "forward" was given, and away went the Seventeenth boys. With only three hundred men, they pushed up in the face of the enemy, who moved off at their approach, while the centre and right were full half a mile in the rear. This was October 25, 1864, and occurred in the vicinity of Fort Scott. The lack of forage and the rapid marching caused the loss of more than half their horses, and hundreds of miles were traversed, by some of the Seventeenth, on foot.

The escape of the rebels over the Arkansas line was followed by the march of the Brigade to Springfield, Mo. Here orders from Headquarters directed it to proceed southwest to Cassville, Mo., thence back to Rolla, Mo., which was reached by November 15, 1864. During the 43 days intervening, the Regiment had marched over 1,000 miles, and suffered the loss of 600 horses.

In January, 1865, the Seventeenth was ordered to Pilot Knob, Mo. After being remounted it was ordered to Cape Girardeau, Mo., in April.

Colonel Beveridge was now breveted Brigadier General, and in command of sub-District No. 2, of St. Louis District, Headquarters at Cape Girardeau, Mo. Lieutenant Colonel Hynes commanded the Regiment.

A threatened attack on the Union lines was rumored abroad. An expedition was sent out, comprising the Seventeenth and some Missouri Artillery, commanded by Lieutenant Colonel Hynes, late in April, but no enemy was found.

The week following, the Seventeenth accompanied commissioners from Department Headquarters, with a flag of truce, who reached General Jeff. Thompson, and arranged terms and places for the capitulation of his forces.

From Cape Girardeau the Regiment was ordered to Kansas, and occupied detached posts along the plains; whence they returned, to be mustered out, in November and December, 1865, at Leavenworth, Kan.

Their last important work was that of a detachment, accompanying the commissioners, who went to Fort Smith to treat with the Indians, at the great council held in September, 1865.

The service of the Regiment has been wholly within the Department of the Missouri, commanded, respectively, by Generals Rosecrans, Dodge and Pope.

While the Regiment was stationed at Pilot Knob, Major Matlack was ordered to St. Louis and assigned to duty as Provost Marshal.

From Cape Girardeau, Colonel Beveridge was ordered to Warrensburg, thence to Kansas City, and thence to Rolla, Mo. He closed out all the military in Missouri, south of the Missouri River, outside of St. Louis county; mustering out the Missouri troops, supervising the removal of military stores, and subjecting the military to the civil authorities when the Regiment was mustered out. Colonel Beveridge, by order of the Secretary of War, was detained in the service and presided over a Military Commission in St. Louis for the trial of rebel offenders against property and persons of the United States. He was finally mustered out of the service February 6, 1866, having served over four years.

The Seventeenth was the last Cavalry Regiment organized in this State. Its services were confined chiefly to the Department of the Missouri.

While the Regiment did not experience any severe engagements, it performed hard and valuable services in frequent skirmishes with the enemy, in routing guerrilla parties and in long and weary marches.

As the youngest of the Cavalry Regiments it is entitled to the respect of the older regiments and the gratitude of the State and Nation.

HISTORY OF FIRST LIGHT ARTILLERY.

BATTERY A.

Battery A was called into service by Governor Yates, in response to the first call of President Lincoln for troops to defend the Nation. Our first appearance in the sanguinary conflict was on Sunday morning, April 21, 1861, and at 9 P. M. we moved for Cairo, via, the Illinois Central Railroad. On our arrival there we were assigned the duty of "bringing to" all downward bound boats with the view of preventing the shipment of contraband goods within the rebel lines. The mode adopted for bringing boats to, was to fire a blank shot in their direction. On the 21st of April, the steamer Baltic, in passing Cairo, disregarded the blank shot, when a solid shot was fired across her bow, which had the desired effect. The shots were fired by squad one, under command of Lieutenant J. R. Botsford, and they were the first that were fired across this mighty river.

After about a week's stay at Cairo, we were ordered to take a position two miles above, on the Mississippi River bank. The position was christened Camp Smith, in honor of our commander, and was occupied by the Battery nearly five months.

The Battery did not muster into the United States three months' service, but was mustered into the three years' service July 16, 1861. While stationed at Cairo the Battery was presented with a beautiful silk flag by Miss Katie Sturges, of Chicago. This flag was carried by the Battery through all its campaigns.

On September 6 the Battery moved with General Grant to Paducah, where it remained until February 4, 1862, participating in the various expeditions from that place, under command of Generals Lew Wallace and C. A. Smith, among which was the feat on Columbus simultaneous with General Grant's attack on Belmont.

Early in February we moved up the Tennessee River, landing below Fort Heiman. We occupied the rebels' camp at Fort Heiman until the 13th of February, when we received orders at midnight to proceed to Fort Donelson, whither we proceeded without delay, and on our arrival were quickly put in position, and opened fire at once, using canister in repelling the last decisive charges, firing fifty-five rounds. The Fort surrendered next day, when we were marched back to Fort Heiman, where we remained until March 5, when we started on the grand advance up the Tennessee. March 27 we marched to Pittsburg Landing, when we were transferred from Gen. Lew Wal- we marched to Pittsburg Landing, when we were transferred from Gen. Lew Wal- The Battery took a conspicuous part in the memorable battle of April 6, going into the fight at 8 o'clock A. M., and retiring some time after 4 P. M. Daniel R. Farnham, Ed. Russel and John Flannigan lost their lives in this engagement, while A. C. Hall, Charles Kimball and Little Bailey were wounded.

About 5 o'clock we fell back to the landing, and about 5:30 the enemy made their last attack on our lines, which was easily repulsed with the aid of two gunboats. Thus ended the first day's fight.

We slept on our arms that night. At 8 o'clock next morning we were ordered to the front, and shelled the timber for about half an hour. Fighting continued at intervals through the day, the rebels making the most stubborn resistance. After the enemy had been routed, General Sherman rode up to Lieutenant Wood and publicly thanked him for the gallant service the Battery had rendered, and on the 12th of April we were presented with a stand of colors "From Friends at Home."

Our next move was with General Lew Wallace's Division, in the direction of Corinth. From Corinth we moved to Bolivar; thence to Union Station, near Memphis. On the 17th of June we reached Memphis, where we remained until November 26. While there we took part in several expeditions from that place, including the Tallahatchie march.

On the 26th of December we moved to Yazoo and took part in the Chickasaw Bayou fight, being under fire about four hours, and firing 897 rounds.

Our next move was to Arkansas Post. We were engaged in a battle here on the 16th and 17th of January, 1862.

We next moved to Young's Point, where we remained all winter.

In the latter part of the winter our right section went with Colonel Giles A. Smith up the Sunflower River and Black Bayou to the relief of Porter's gunboats.

On April 13 we witnessed the grand sight of our gunboats running past the rebel batteries at Vicksburg. Soon after this we went with Sherman up the Yazoo, and made a feint on Haines' Bluff.

On May 15 we hurried back, and the next day the battle at Champion Hill was fought, where we were in position, but were not engaged.

On May 17 we marched to Big Black to a place called Bridgeport, and captured a rebel Lieutenant and 12 men.

On the 18th of May we advanced on the works around Vicksburg. On the 19th and 22d of May, ineffective charges were made upon the works, when the regular siege began, which lasted until July 4, when the city was surrounded with 33,000 troops.

On the 5th of July we moved with the Division to Jackson. We besieged the city from the 18th to the 17th, when the place was evacuated. While here our loss was 7 prisoners and one killed—Sergeant Wilber J. Wilcox. We moved back to Big Black, where we remained until September 27, when we were ordered to Chattanooga.

On the 24th of November our Corps moved forward and occupied a spur of Missionary Ridge without firing a shot. Next day we attacked the enemy's right flank and pressed it vigorously all day. About 4 o'clock the Army of the Cumberland made a charge in the center and swept everything before them. Hooker had taken Lookout Mountain, driving Bragg from his fortifications. We followed him until he took refuge at Dalton, Ga. We then returned to camp near Chattanooga. We moved next to Bellfont, Ala., reaching there about Christmas; thence to Larkinsville, where we went into winter quarters.

On May 1, 1864, we started on the Atlanta Campaign, reaching Snake Creek Gap May 2. We were drawn up in line of battle at its east end, looking into Resaca, where the enemy was protected by earthworks. On the 11th, Johnson massed his forces in Resaca, and on the 15th the battle was fought, when the rebels evacuated their fortifications and retreated, burning their bridges behind them. Here Lieutenant Rumsey was severely wounded.

We next engaged the enemy at Dallas. They charged on us repeatedly, but were each time repulsed with heavy loss. Here Colonel Taylor was shot in the breast, the ball glancing on a rib, and the same ball struck General Logan in the arm.

The rebels retreated to Kennesaw Mountain, where there was fighting at close intervals from June 19 until July 3, when they were forced to retreat to Atlanta. On July 12, the three-year men, whose term of service had expired, were ordered to the rear to be mustered out.

On the evening of the 12th of July the battery moved with the Corps to Northeast Atlanta, marching all night and all the next day. We took part in the engagement of July 19 and 21, losing two of our new men. On the 22d the battery was posted on a high ridge through which the railroad passed. During the day we were attacked from the front and rear, and, being overpowered by superior numbers, the battery was captured and many of the men taken prisoners, while a number were killed and wounded. Subsequently the infantry rallied and forced the rebels back, regaining our position, but the retreating column carried with it four of our guns.

We took part in the grand move in the rear of Atlanta, which culminated in the severe battle of Jonesboro on the 31st of July, and which compelled the evacuation of Atlanta.

Here we were re-organized, and Captain E. P. Wilcox, formerly of Battery B, was placed in command. After about a month's encampment on the outskirts of Atlanta, we moved northward towards Hood's army, and when he countermarched by our left flank and went south, we were ordered to Nashville, where we arrived about Nov. 1, and were in the reserve line during the battle there. From here we were sent to Chattanooga, remaining till the later part of June, 1865, when we were ordered home for muster-out, arriving in Chicago July 3, where we received a royal welcome at the hands of our friends, who gave us a grand banquet in honor of our return.

BATTERY B.

Battery B was organized in April, 1861, and left in June for Cairo, where it lay three weeks and then moved to Bird's Point, Missouri. One section of the Battery participated in the fight at Fredericktown, October 26th. The entire Battery went with Grant to Belmont on the 7th of November, going into action with six guns and coming out with eight, completely demolishing the rebel battery. Then at Donelson in W. H. L. Wallace's Brigade the Battery occupied the extreme right, fighting with scarce any intermission for three days. The day before the battle of Shiloh it was transferred to Sherman's Division and was in the fight; it was also with him on the right at the siege of Corinth; was at Lagrange and Holly Springs, and at Memphis with Sherman on the 22d of July, 1862. Was at Chickasaw Bayou, Arkansas Post, the siege of Vicksburg, Champion Hills, Mechanicsburg and Richmond, La. Its valor was attested at all these places. Thence it moved to Memphis, Chattanooga and Knoxville to the relief of Burnside. It wintered at Larkinsville. On the 1st of May, 1863, it moved with Sherman on his Atlanta campaign. The Battery was all through those fights, doing bravely at Resaca and Dallas. General Logan highly complimented the Battery for its gallantry at the latter place. It was at Kenesaw and took part in many minor engagements. On the 12th of July, 1864, it was ordered to Springfield that the men might be mustered out of the service. The Battery had 219 men altogether on its muster rolls and lost by death 16, six in battle and wounded 27.

The Battery was re-organized by the consolidation of A and B, and afterward participated in the balance of the Atlanta campaign, and the chase of Hood toward Nashville, and when Sherman left Atlanta the Battery remained with General Thomas, taking part in the fight at Nashville with Hood. It arrived in Chicago, July 2, 1865, where it was mustered out and discharged.

BATTERY D.

Battery D, First Light Artillery, was organized at Cairo, September 2, 1861, by Captain Edward McAllister.

September 18, moved to Fort Holt, Kentucky. February 3, ordered to Fort Henry, with three 24-pdr. iron howitzers. Was engaged in the siege of Fort Donelson, two of the guns being disabled. March 6, moved to Paducah. On 14th, moved to Savannah, Tennessee, with four 24-pdr. bronze howitzers. On April 6 and 7, took part in battle of Shiloh; took eight positions during the action. June 6, moved to Bethel, Tennessee, and on 18th, arrived at Bolivar. November 3 and 4, marched to Lagrange, in Third Division, Thirteenth Army Corps.

November 28, 1862, went on Yocona expedition, in Brigadier General Logan's Division, returning to Tallahatchie, River, December 24, 1862.

The Battery was mustered out of service at Chicago, July 28, 1865.

BATTERY E.

Battery E was organized at Camp Douglas during the fall of 1861. The Battery was mustered into service December 19, 1861. February 13, 1862, were sent to Cairo, where horses, guns and all other necessary equipments, were procured.

On the 27th of March, took boat to Pittsburg Landing, arriving the 30th, and received a baptism of fire at Shiloh, April 6. Casualties, one killed, sixteen wounded, and one missing. After Shiloh, moved on Corinth, which was taken by Sherman's army May 29, 1862. Followed the line of the Memphis and Charleston Railroad, skirmishing, camping, etc., till we reached Memphis, Tenn. Went into camp at Fort Pickering. Here the Battery had their first opportunity to drill with horses and guns, and the occasion was improved.

November 26, went with Sherman's expedition to Oxford, Miss., and thence to Corinth via Bolivar, and on to White's Station January 31, 1863, where the Company remained for a time in camp. Returned to Memphis about the 14th of March, 1863, and embarked for Duckport, La., to join Sherman's army.

On May 2 went to Grand Gulf, Miss.; thence to Jackson, Miss., and, May 14, assisted in its capture. May 16, moved on Vicksburg, Miss., arriving the 18th, and took an active part in the siege of that place, losing two killed and six wounded. July 5, marched back to Jackson, and assisted in a nine-days' siege, when Johnson evacuated.

On the 23d of July went into camp on Bear Creek, in rear of Vicksburg, on Oak Ridge. This became summer camp, and expeditions were made to Mechanicsburg, Miss., Canton, and other places. November 5, went to Vicksburg, and took boat for Memphis, arriving there the 12th. During winter went to Lagrange, Tenn.; also, Corinth, Jack Creek, and again to Corinth, and back to Memphis via Lagrange.

On the 10th of February, 1864, had a skirmish at Wyatt, Tenn., on the Tallahatchie River. Returned to Memphis. Camped at head of Main street, near Navy Yard.

In April went to Bolivar, Miss., and Ripley, in search of General Forrest; but supplies giving out, returned to Memphis to refit.

June 1, 1864, marched to Guntown, Miss., and fought in the disastrous battle of Brice's Cross Roads, losing 1 killed, 3 wounded and 4 missing. Returned to Memphis, every man for himself, and very much demoralized.

After a few days' rest, on June 21, under command of General A. J. Smith, went to Lagrange, Miss. July 5, marched on Tupelo, and July 12, fought at Pontotoc, Miss.

July 13, were ambuscaded, and lost one wounded.

On the 14th of July, fought and whipped the rebel General Forrest, at Tupelo, Miss.

July 15, returned to Memphis. September 3, 1864, took boat down Mississippi to White River Gap to Duvall's Bluff, Ark. Marched through Arkansas swamps to Cape Girardeau under General J. A. Mower. Took boat to Jefferson City, Mo., and followed the rebel General Price to the western boundary of the State, and returned to St. Louis, where we arrived November 15, 1864. After drawing new complement of horses, took the boat for Nashville, Tenn., and were with General Thomas during the siege of Nashville and annihilation of Hood's Army.

The time of enlistment of Battery E expired December 19, 1864, but they were not mustered out of service until the evening of December 24, 1864, at Louisville, Ky. The new recruits and one or two other companies consolidated with Battery E, remained in service till June, 1865, and were mustered out in June at or near Chattanooga, Tenn.

BATTERY F.

Battery F, First Light Artillery, was recruited at Dixon by Captain John T. Cheney, and was mustered in at Springfield, February 25, 1862.

Moved to Benton Barracks, Mo., March 15, with four 6-pdrs. April 1, ordered to Pittsburg Landing, Tenn., and arrived April 9, and was assigned to Major General Lew. Wallace's Third Division, Army of the Tennessee.

Was engaged in the siege of Corinth, and, June 9, marched for Memphis, arriving on the 18th. November 26, moved from Memphis, and arrived at the Tallahatchie River December 2. On the 14th, in Denver's Division, went on the Yocoma expedition, returning to Tallahatchie River, and finally to Holly Springs, Miss.

March 7, 1865, Battery F was consolidated with other batteries in the Regiment.

BATTERY G.

Battery G, First Light Artillery, was organized at Cairo by Captain Arthur O'Leary, and was mustered in September 28, 1861.

March 18, 1862, moved to Columbus, Ky.; thence to Island No. 10 and New Madrid, as garrison, and returned to Cairo April 11. On 13th, moved down river to Fort Pillow, and on 16th, returned. April 22, moved to Hamburg, Tenn., and was engaged in the siege of Corinth, in May, 1862, Captain O'Leary commanding, and in battle of Corinth, Oct. 4, 1862.

The Battery was mustered out of service at Camp Butler, July 24, 1865.

BATTERY H.

Battery H was recruited in and about Chicago, by Captain Axel Silversparre, during January and February, 1862. In March it was ordered to St. Louis, where it was equipped as a four 20-pounder Parrott gun Battery, and was immediately sent down the river to join General Grant's command. The Battery arrived at Pittsburg Landing, April 5, and participated in the battle of Shiloh the next day, April 6, it forming the centre of that line of artillery which, with gun-boats on the Tennessee, repulsed the last charges of the confederates on the first day of Shiloh. Soon after the Battery became part of General Sherman's command, and was always thereafter attached to the Second Division of the Fifteenth Army Corps.

At Memphis, during the summer of 1862, Captain Silversparre was made Chief of Artillery at Fort Pickering, and in pursuance of his duties was captured by the enemy, and never again rejoined the Battery.

The command then devolved upon Frank DeGress, who some time afterwards was commissioned Captain, and who made the Battery (known as DeGress' Battery) a very famous one in General Sherman's command. The Battery participated in all of the battles in which the Fifteenth Corps was engaged, and was one of the working Companies of that famous Corps at Vicksburg, Mission Ridge, Atlanta campaign, March to the Sea, and finally marched in review before the President at Washington, and was mustered out with the rest of the Fifteenth Corps. The guns were captured on the 22d of July, 1864, in front of Atlanta, but were soon recaptured and turned with good effect upon the retreating enemy.

BATTERY I.

Battery I, First Light Artillery, was organized at Camp Douglas, by Captain Edward Bouton, and was mustered in February 10, 1862.

On March 1 moved to Benton Barracks, Mo. On April 1 moved for Pittsburg Landing, arriving on the 4th. On the 6th and 7th, was engaged in battle of Shiloh. In May was engaged in the siege of Corinth, and afterward moved to Memphis. Went on an expedition, in October, into Arkansas, and afterward into Mississippi, where it engaged the enemy's cavalry.

Remained at Memphis until November 28, 1862, when participated in Tallahatchie raid, and returned to Lagrange and Holly Springs, and Moscow, Tenn.—Brigadier General J. W. Denver commanding Division. Remained until June 6, 1863, when moved to Memphis. Embarked for Vicksburg—Colonel John Mason Loomis commanding Brigade, and Brigadier General W. S. Smith commanding Division,—and arrived at Snyder's Bluff, on the Yazoo, June 11, 1863. Went into position, and fortified, to prevent Johnson's approach. Moved with Sherman's army, July 5, and participated in the siege of Jackson, and returned to Black River.

Moved, under General Sherman, via Memphis and Corinth, to Chattanooga, and was engaged in the battles of November 25, 26 and 27. Moved thence to Ringgold, and back to Chattanooga, Bridgeport and Scottsboro, Alabama. Veteranized March 17, 1864, and moved to Illinois for furlough. Returned to Nashville, Tennessee, and remained there. Participated in the battle of Nashville, December 15 and 16, 1864.

The Company was in Hatch's Cavalry Division, Wilson's Corps. Engaged in pursuit of Hood, to Florence, Alabama.

Moved to Eastport, and there remained until the Battery was ordered to Chicago for muster out. Mustered out July 26, 1865.

BATTERY K.

Battery K was organized at Shawneetown and mustered into the service Jan. 9, 1862. The first year of the service of this battery was spent in chasing guerrillas through Kentucky, chiefly in and about Perryville. It was then ordered to Louisville and remained there to protect the city until Burnside's Tennessee expedition was fitted out. Of that expedition it formed a part, participating in all its arduous service in connection with the First Cavalry Division of the army to which it had been attached. It was the first battery in East Tennessee, and was foremost in the capture of Knoxville. During its service in Tennessee it was attached to the Brigade of which the Fourteenth Illinois Cavalry formed a part. A part of the men were mustered out of the service at Springfield in June, 1865, and the remainder at Chicago in the month following.

BATTERY M.

Battery M was organized at Camp Douglas and mustered into the service August 12, 1862, for three years.

On September 27 the Battery left for Louisville, where it did garrison duty until Nov. 11.

On October 24, while drilling on the gallop, a caisson exploded, killing two men and severely wounding more.

On November 11 the Battery went by rail to Lebanon, Ky., and was then in the Thirty-fourth Brigade, Tenth Division, Army of the Ohio. From Lebanon they marched to Columbia, to help guard against the incursions of Morgan and others, and on the 27th, the Centre Section and twenty-four Cavalrymen were sent to Miller-ville, 14 miles south, to repel Morgan, but he passed around far to the west. On December 22 the Battery marched back to Lebanon.

January 6 marched for New Haven, where they took cars for Louisville on the 22d, and on 29th, embarked on the ferry boat "James Thompson," for Louisville, with a fleet of 65 transports, to reinforce General Rosecrans. Reached Nashville on the 7th, where Captain Miller left the Battery permanently, the command devolving on Senior First Lieutenant George W. Spencer. On the 12th they went to Franklin, where they fired a few shots at the retreating rebels.

On the 23d, started with the army driving General Bragg. They lay at Shelbyville from June 29th until September 6, when they started on the Chickamauga campaign, being in General Gordon Granger's Reserve Corps, Senior Lieutenant Thomas Burton commanding, Lieutenant Spencer being at home on "leave," where he was mustered in as Captain. September 12th, Battery went with small command under General Steadman, to near Ringgold, Ga. On the 18th Battery again went out under General Steadman. They went about 8 miles on the Lafayette road, and in the night captured about 25 wagons and 70 men, belonging to General Longstreet. Some were members of his brass-band. Went back to Roseville Gap in A. M. of 19th, and in P. M. went on the gallop to the battlefield, on the Ringgold road, to McAfee's Church, about 4 miles out. At 11 A. M. of June 20th, engaged a rebel battery belonging to General Stearns. We repulsed General Longstreet repeatedly, until sunset, losing two men killed, 14 wounded and 16 horses killed. In the words of General Rosecrans Official Report, "Swift was the charge, and terrible the conflict, but the enemy was broken. A thousand of our brave men, killed and wounded, paid for its possession. But we held the Gap. Two divisions of Longstreet's Corps, confronted the position. Determined to take it, they successively came to the assault. A battery of six guns placed in the gorge poured death and slaughter into them. They charged within a few yards of the pieces, but our grape and canister, and the leaden hail of musketry, delivered in sparing but terrible volleys * * * was too much even for Longstreet's men."

On September 21, the Battery was placed in Ringgold Gap of Mission Ridge, whence it shelled the rebel cavalry that appeared in the valley beyond. That night all the troops were taken into Chattanooga, and Battery M was left at the front without any support of any kind, and with no orders. They reached the lines the next morning about 8 o'clock, with the rebels close upon their heels. They were sent across the river and remained on Stringer's Point until October 20, when they were put in the works to the left of Fort Negley, the left section having guarded Brown's Ferry for a while. During the siege of Chattanooga, the men and horses suffered for food as did those of the other commands, many of their horses having starved at the picket ropes. The Battery was now attached to the Third Brigade, Indiana Division, Fourth Corps. Captain Spencer rejoined the Battery September 29.

November 2, the Battery drove away a lot of rebels who had begun to fortify in front of Fort Negley, and on the 25th fired its last shot at General Bragg, from near Fort Negley.

On 28th, started for the relief of Knoxville, and reached there December 7.

On 15th, went to Strawberry Plains, and on the 18th to Blain's X Roads.

On January 15, 1864, went to Dandridge; returned to Knoxville by rail, and thence to London, and did garrison duty until April 18, when they left for Cleveland.

On May 3, started on Atlanta Campaign, and on the 8th, at night, drew the guns of the right section to the top of Rocky Face, where the rebels thought no gun could be put. Shelled the rebel camps from there on 9th.

On the 13th, followed the rebels to Resaca. Were kept on the skirmish line on 16th and 17th, on the latter day shelling them from in front of Adairsville. Drove rebels on 18th and 19th, and rested near Kingston until 23d, when they moved toward Dallas by way of Burnt Hickory. Were put in the works near New Hope Church on 26th.

Early on June 1, the rebel fort opened on them, putting their shells through Battery M's embraces, but they soon silenced the fort, and did it a second time toward night. The rebels left on the night of the 4th, and Battery M went into camp a few miles ahead, and remained there until the 10th.

On the 14th we shelled the mountain, killing Lieutenant General Leonidas Polk.

On the 18th, while engaging a rebel battery in front, another Battery enfiladed them from the right rear, wounding one man who died from gangrene July 29. Battery M soon silenced both batteries, firing 403 rounds that day. At night they went into captured rebel works that three batteries had tried to reach during the day. They were almost against a very strong rebel fort. They reversed the works to be ready for the morning, but the enemy had retreated during the night.

Followed the rebels on 19th. In afternoon took position near woods, to shell Kene-saw, but rebel sharpshooters were so near and killed our horses so that we withdrew.

On 21st, went to the right about a mile. In the evening they were ordered to fire at rebel batteries that were killing off the men and horses very fast of batteries where M was the day before. They had to fire "by sound," as the rebel batteries were behind heavy woods. They soon silenced them, for which General Howard sent his thanks, and the Division Chief of Artillery said: "I never saw anything to equal it as to the splendid shots." Took position in captured works near by on 22d. On 26th, a detailed man was killed by a sharp-shooter. On 27th, the Battery was sent as reserve or the Second Division, Fourteenth Corps, but were not called into action, and therefore had a full view of the fearful slaughter of the Union troops that day.

Battery M being now short of men and horses, turned over its left section guns, and had but four guns thereafter as long as it remained in the field. During June they traveled 33 miles, and were under fire 20 days.

On July 2, rebels withdrew south of Marietta, and Battery M followed on 3d and 5th, taking position on the west bank of the Chattahoochee, in sight of Atlanta. On the 6th, Generals Sherman, Thomas, Howard, Palmer, Schofield, Newton, Barry, Corse, Wood, Brannan and Whipple visited the Battery and fired a few shots at a rebel battery on opposite bank. On the 7th, the Battery shelled the rebel works, and at night engaged in a general artillery duel. Crossed the river on 13th. Engaged and silenced a rebel battery on the 18th, at Nancy's Creek, and on 20th repulsed the charges of the rebels under General Stevens, he being killed in front of the Battery as he attempted to capture the bridge over Peach Tree Creek. They doubled shotted their guns with cannister. General Thomas was among the gunners throughout, cheering them on. On the 22d, they took position in the works before Atlanta, and lay there until they went with Sherman to flank the enemy out, on August 24.

On September 1, they engaged and silenced a rebel battery, and on the 5th they fired, near Lovejoy, the last shot they sent at the Nation's foes. They returned to Atlanta, and being so worn out were sent to Chattanooga November 1, and did garrison duty there and at Cleveland and Charleston, Tennessee, until July 14, when they started for Chicago, where they were mustered out July 24, 1864—99 strong. They had had 7 commissioned officers, 170 men mustered in, 157 detailed men, lost 2 killed in battle, 1 detailed man killed, 1 man died of wounds, 2 killed by accident, 7 died of disease, 1 taken prisoner (at the capture of Atlanta), 31 previously discharged, 7 transferred, 22 deserted, 16 wounded, 39 horses killed, traveled 3,102 miles, fired 7,845 rounds at the enemy, and were under fire 178 days.

HISTORY OF SECOND LIGHT ARTILLERY.

BATTERY A.

Battery A was organized at Peoria, by Captain Peter Davidson, and was mustered into State service, May 23, 1861.

Moved to Alton, in July, 1861. Thence moved to St. Charles, Mo., with General Pope, and, thence, to Mexico, Mo. From this place, sections were sent to different parts of North Missouri, which were again united at Jefferson Barracks, Mo., at which place the Battery was mustered into United States service, August 17, 1861.

Moved to Jefferson City, Mo., and, October 1, to Booneville, Mo., and thence, to Otterville. Thence marched, in Kelton's Brigade, Pope's Division of Fremont's Army, to Springfield, Mo., and returned to Otterville, January 25, 1862, in Colonel Julius White's Brigade, Brigadier Jeff. C. Davis' Division, moved to Lebanon, and, with Curtis' Army, to Northwest Arkansas. Was engaged in the battle of Pea Ridge, March 7 and 8, where it did faithful and brilliant service. A section of the Battery did good service at Neosho and Fayetteville. Moved to Helena, Ark., with General Curtis' Army.

Battery A was mustered out of service at Camp Butler, July 27, 1865.

BATTERY D.

Battery D, Second Illinois Artillery, was organized at Cairo, Ill., and mustered into service of the United States in December, 1861. Equipped with six James' Brass Rifle Cannon.

The officers were: Jasper M. Dresser Captain, James P. Timmony First Lieutenant, Harrison C. Berger First Lieutenant, George Dunlap Second Lieutenant and Charles S. Cooper Second Lieutenant.

Captain Dresser resigned soon after the battle of Donelson, and was appointed Colonel of an Indiana Regiment. Lieutenant Timmony then commanded, until his resignation in the spring of 1862, when Charles S. Cooper was commissioned as Captain, and remained in command until November, 1864, when the Battery was mustered out of service.

The first active service for this Battery was in February, 1862, at the battle of Fort Donelson, where it served in the Division under General J. A. McClernand; went through the entire siege, doing effective work and suffering severely from exposure to the weather and the enemy's fire. The weather being intensely cold, bivouacking on the bare ground and almost without food or shelter was quite severe for fresh troops.

The Battery then proceeded up the Tennessee River, to Pittsburg Landing, and took an active part in the battle of Shiloh, not surprised as some were at the attack by the Confederates under command of Johnson and Beauregard, as the Battery was ordered out on the Friday night previous to the battle and kept in position ready for battle at any moment from early sundown until daylight the next morning. On the Sunday morning following, the Battery was on the ground ready for battle, long before the first picket shots were heard or the drum sounded the alarm to fall into ranks. Our commanders were certainly looking for an attack from the enemy and had for at least a week before it was made.—Still serving in McClernand's Division, with Major Schwartz as chief of artillery, the Battery was placed in commanding position near General Oglesby's headquarters about half mile from the Church. Major Schwartz being wounded and carried from the field, Battery D was at once ordered to the front and placed in position within 100 yards of the famous Shiloh Church. The enemy were advancing rapidly. The fighting commenced at once; the shot and shell from the Battery moved swaths in the rebel ranks. The word "close up" would be given and in a second the ranks would be filled and forward was the movement. Volley after volley was poured into the Battery, killing and wounding many. The struggle was a desperate one. The Battery lost 18 men killed, (one man, Sergeant Tozer, had 18 bullet holes through his body before he fell,) 28 men wounded, 49 horses killed and 4 cannon and 4 caissons with some ammunition captured, all occurring inside of 30 minutes from the time of going into battle. With the enemy advancing in large force retreat was the only alternative. Consequently fell back to the Artillery line, which had been formed, and was under command of Colonel J. D. Webster. Here the Battery remained doing effective work until the morning of April 7, when the enemy were routed, and the Battery in company with the other troops moved forward until they had regained possession of the ground held at the beginning of the battle, and the Battery recaptured the guns that had been taken from them the day previous.

On the 27th of April the Battery, in company with the Union forces under Hallack and Grant, advanced on Corinth, capturing the same on the 30th of May, after Beauregard had fled leaving nothing but ashes and desolation.

Marched from Corinth to Jackson, Tenn., thence to Lagrange. Engaged in a skirmish at Davis' Mills, Miss., and a fight at Fayette, Tenn., with the rebel General Forrest's command, at the same time that General Ed Hatch was shot through the body. After raiding to Mississippi with the cavalry under command of Colonel Ben Grierson, the Battery was returned to Grand Junction for Post duty, where it remained until January, 1864, when ordered to Memphis to join the expedition to Vicksburg, and Sherman's march through Mississippi to Jackson, Meridian, etc., to break up or disperse the force then organizing or collecting to recapture Vicksburg. Returning from this expedition to Memphis again, the Battery remained in Sherman's command until reaching Decatur, Ala., where it was placed on duty under General Granger. Participated in the fight with General Hood who attacked the place with a force of 40,000. The whole little band of 1,800 men stationed there put on a bold front and held the Confederate forces in check until reinforcements were forwarded from Nashville and Huntsville and the Post, with its large supply of Commissary and Quartermaster stores, was saved. The Battery remained here until ordered to Louisville, Ky., and was mustered out of the service on the 21st day of November, 1864.

BATTERY E.

Battery E was organized at St. Louis, Mo., in August, 1861, by Captain Adolph Schwartz, and was mustered into service August 29th at St. Louis Arsenal.

One section of the Battery, Lieutenant Hanger commanding, moved September 6th to North Missouri, and had an engagement with the enemy at Liberty, September 17th, and returned to Cairo, December 29, 1861.

The Battery, Lieutenant Gumbart commanding, moved to Cairo, September 14th; moved to Fort Holt and Jefferson, Ky., and then returned to Cairo. On November 1st, Lieutenant Gumbart's section went on an expedition to Bloomfield, Mo., and January 9, 1862, to Columbus, Ky., and returned.

On February 1, 1862, the Battery, Lieutenant Gumbart commanding, moved to Fort Henry, and, on the 13th, arrived before Fort Donelson. On the 14th, held position on the right with Colonel Oglesby's Brigade. On the morning of the 15th, Lieutenant Gumbart was severely wounded, and Lieutenant Nispel took command. The enemy charged upon the hill upon which the Battery was stationed, three times, but were repulsed.

The Battery was engaged during the battle of Shiloh, April 6th and 7th, taking 6 different positions. Was engaged in the siege of Corinth, and in June marched to Purdy, Bethel and Jackson, Tenn. On July 28th, Lieutenant Dengel's section marched from Bolivar, with Colonel Lawler's Brigade, and had an engagement at Britton's Lane, on September 1st, in which the section was captured, together with Lieutenant Dengel and ten men.

On November 3, 1862, the remaining section, First Sergeant Martin Mann commanding, was attached to Fourth Division, Seventeenth Army Corps, Brigadier General Lauman commanding, and went on the Yocona expedition. On 24th December, marched to Moscow, Tenn., arriving January 12, 1863.

Battery E was consolidated with Battery A.

BATTERY F.

Battery F was organized at Cape Girardeau, Mo., by Captain John W. Powell, and was mustered in December 11, 1861.

On March 14, 1862, moved to Pittsburg Landing, with six 6-pdr. guns, and was assigned to Brigadier General W. H. L. Wallace's Brigade, Sixth Division.

On the morning of April 6, engaged the enemy near Shiloh Church. Lieutenant Bliss was injured at 9 A. M., by falling from his horse; Captain Powell lost an arm at 3 P. M., and the Battery fired its last shot at 6 P. M., having lost 2 guns and 27 horses.

Engaged in the siege of Corinth, June, 1862. One section, Lieutenant J. W. Mitchell commanding, was engaged in the battle of Corinth, October 3d and 4th, 1862.

The Battery was engaged in the siege of Vicksburg; in a scout from Natchez to Liberty, La.; in the Meridian Campaign; one section in the fight on the Hatchie.

Moved with Fourth Division, Seventeenth Army Corps, via Cairo, to Clifton, Tenn. Marched thence to Allatoona.

The Battery was engaged at Kenesaw Mountain. Was heavily engaged July 22, before Atlanta, losing 1 Lieutenant and 32 men, killed, wounded and missing. Engaged during the siege of Atlanta and Jonesboro, and was in the fight at Nashville, Tenn., December 15th and 16th, 1864.

Was in the Fourth Division, Seventeenth Corps, from the organization of that Division.

Ordered to Springfield for muster-out, July 9, 1865, and was mustered out July 27, 1865.

BATTERY H.

Battery H was organized at Camp Butler, December, 1861, by Captain Andrew Stenbeck, and was mustered in December 31, 1861.

February 6, 1862, moved to Cairo, and was stationed at Fort Holt. One section was engaged in the siege of Fort Donelson. One section moved to siege of Fort Pillow, and returned to Columbus, Ky. Moved to Henderson, Ky., and went in pursuit of Morgan, August 1. One section moved to Smithland, Ky., September 4, one moved to Clarksville, and engaged the enemy under Woodward, and returned to Fort Helman, December 20.

February 3, 1863, Battery moved to the relief of Fort Donelson. August 26, the Battery moved to Clarksville, Tenn. January 1, 1864, 65 men re-enlisted as veterans and were furloughed.

During the summer of 1861 the men of the Battery were mounted and armed as cavalry, and were used in scouting, etc. August 8, engaged the enemy at Canton and Rockcastle Ford, Ky., and subsequently were in garrison at Clarksville, until June 15.

Was mustered out at Springfield, July 29, 1865.

BATTERY I.

Battery I was recruited in Will county, and was mustered into the United States service at Camp Butler, December 31, 1861.

The Battery remained at Camp Butler until February 7, 1862, when it was ordered to Cairo. It took part in the siege of Island Number 10, under General Pope. Upon the surrender of the Island General Pope's command was ordered to Harrisburg Landing, Tenn. Upon its arrival there it took an active part in the advance upon Corinth and was in several engagements prior to the evacuation of the place, among which was Blackland and Farmington. After the evacuation of Corinth the Battery went into Camp at Rienzi, Miss., for the summer, in General Asboth's command. September 6th, the Battery moved with General Gordon Granger's command to Cincinnati, arriving there September 12th. From thence it proceeded to Louisville and was assigned to General Sheridan's Division and started in pursuit of General Bragg, about October 1st. October 7th we went into action at daybreak at Perryville, Ky., and was under fire until dark. The Battery had four men wounded in that fight. From Perryville we moved to Nashville. On the 10th of December the Brigade to which the battery was attached (Colonel Dan McCook's) was relieved from duty under Sheridan and ordered to garrison, Nashville.

June 30, 1863, the Brigade was ordered to Murfreesboro and was stationed there one month and was then ordered back to Nashville. August 30th we left Nashville with the Second Brigade, Second Division, and marched by way of Columbia, Tennessee, Athens and Huntsville to Bridgeport, Alabama. September 13th, we went into camp at Rossville, Ga., and took an active part in the battle of Chickamauga. Fell back to Chattanooga and went into camp at the mouth of North Chickamauga Creek with Dan McCook's Brigade.

Took part in Lookout Mountain fight, Mission Ridge and Chattanooga.

January 1, 1864, all of the old members were mustered out and re-mustered in as veterans, and arrived at Springfield, Ill., January 16, where they were given thirty days' furlough and ordered to report for duty at Joliet, Ill.

The roster of the Battery was as follows:

Captain.....	Chas. M. Barnett.
Senior First Lieutenant.....	Henry B. Plant.
Junior First Lieutenant.....	Alonzo M. Coe.
Senior Second Lieutenant.....	Judson Rich.
Junior Second Lieutenant.....	Chas. McDonald.

Lieutenants Hayward and Haight having resigned while we were in camp at Nashville, Tenn.

The Battery left Joliet March 4, 1864, for Chattanooga, Tenn. Shortly after its arrival at Chattanooga, it was assigned to its old Division (Second) in the Fourteenth Army Corps, General Jeff. C. Davis commanding, Captain Barnett being appointed Chief of Artillery of the Division.

May 6, 1864, started on Georgia campaign, and took a prominent part up to the taking of Atlanta, the last battle being Jonesboro.

November 7, 1864, Captain Barnett resigned, and the command fell to Lieutenant Coe.

The Battery marched from Atlanta to Savannah, Ga., and while shelling a rebel battery some fifteen miles from Savannah, Lieutenant Coe was killed by a shell from the rebel battery. From Savannah it proceeded with Sherman's Army through South and North Carolina, and was in every engagement that the Fourteenth Army Corps was in.

Upon the surrender of General Johnston's Army, it proceeded to Washington, and took part in the grand review, and from there was ordered to Springfield, Ill., to be mustered out of service. Upon it being mustered out the roster of the Battery was as follows:

Captain.....	Judson Rich.
First Lieutenant.....	George I. Ward.
Second Lieutenant.....	Chas. McDonald.

BATTERY K.

Battery K was organized at Camp Butler, in December, 1861, by Captain Benjamin F. Rodgers, and was mustered in December 31.

On February 7, 1862, moved to Cairo, and in March moved to Columbus, Ky. In June, 1862, one section was sent to Fort Pillow, during the bombardment. The Battery was then ordered to Memphis, Tenn., and in August returned to Columbus. In October, moved, with force under command of Captain Rodgers, to Clarkston, Mo., which was occupied by 300 rebels. Attacked and destroyed the place.

In November, moved to Memphis, and was assigned to Fourth Division, Sixteenth Army Corps, and moved, with the Division, to Yocona Creek. Returned north to Memphis and Charleston Railroad, and remained on duty until February, 1863, when it moved with the Division to Memphis.

On May 20, moved to Vicksburg. Took part in the siege of Vicksburg. August 20, moved to Natchez, Miss. Remained in this place, engaged in various expeditions and raids, until December 11, 1864, when it moved to Memphis, and went on garrison duty.

July 9 moved from Memphis to Chicago, arriving July 11, and was mustered out July 14, 1865.

BATTERY L.

Battery L was organized at Camp Douglas, by Captain William H. Bolton, and mustered in February 28, 1862.

On March 11, 1863, moved to Benton Barracks, Mo., and on April 8, moved to Pittsburg Landing, Tenn. Was assigned to Fourth Division, Army of the Tennessee, Brigadier General S. A. Hurlbut, commanding. Participated in the advance upon Corinth, Miss. Was engaged in various movements in Tennessee and Mississippi, until the battle of the Hatchie, October 5, 1862, at which place the Battery captured a 4-gun battery and a stand of colors from the enemy.

On November 26 was transferred to Third Division, Brigadier General John A. Logan commanding, and was engaged in the advance on the Tallahatchie, December 2, 1862.

The Battery was mustered out of service at Chicago, August 9, 1865.

BATTERY M.

Battery M was organized at Chicago, by Captain John C. Phillips, and was mustered in at Springfield, June, 1862, by Captain C. B. Watson.

Moved from Camp Douglas, May 11th, 1863, and proceeded to Covington, Ky. On May 24th, moved to Catlettsburg, Ky. On 2d June, moved to Louisa, Ky., and reported to Gen. White, June 4th. On 14th, moved, with the expedition, up Big Sandy Valley to Beaver creek, arriving on the 21st. During its stay there, one section of the Battery moved, with an expedition, to Gladsville, Va., capturing Colonel Cordell, 20 officers, and 100 enlisted men of the enemy. On July 22d, fell back to Louisa, and, August 4th, moved to Covington. On the 8th, reported to General Burnside, at Camp Nelson, Ky., and was attached to Reserve Artillery, Twenty-third Army Corps.

Moved from Danville on the 17th, and September 4th arrived at Lenoir's Station, East Tennessee. Arrived at Knoxville, on the 15th, and at Greenville, on the 17th, and was assigned to Colonel Carter's Brigade, of Cavalry Division. Advanced on the enemy at Jonesboro, one section of the Battery being engaged. On 23d September, engaged the enemy's batteries at Carter's Station. One section went with expedition to Zollicoffer, on 24th September.

On 26th, fell back to Greenville, and, October 1st, to Bull's Gap. On the 5th, the second section was at Blue Springs, and had a sharp engagement with the enemy. On 10th, the whole Battery was in action, all day, at Blue Springs. On 13th October, came up with enemy at Blountsville, and engaged him. Pursued the enemy through Carter Station, Zollicoffer and Bristol, and to near Abington, Virginia. On the 16th, fell back to Bristol. Colonel Carter's Brigade was ordered to Rogersville, where it arrived on the 19th.

On November 5th, Captain Phillips was ordered to Nashville, leaving Lieutenant Stevenson in command. On the morning of the 6th, the camp was attacked by the rebel General Jones, with 4,000 men. After a sharp engagement, in which the Battery lost 4 men killed, and 35 captured, the guns were spiked and abandoned. 86 men and 50 horses and equipments were saved.

The detachment went into camp at Camp Nelson, Ky.

Consolidated with other batteries of the Regiment.

HISTORY OF CHICAGO BOARD OF TRADE BATTERY.

July 6, 1862, the President made a call for three hundred thousand soldiers. There was not that ready response that characterized previous demands. At this juncture men with minds to grasp the situation, and whose moral judgment urged them to support the right, appeared with a fixed determination. These characteristics were developed in Chicago thus:

"CHICAGO, ILL., July 16, 1862.

"C. T. WHEELER, President of the Board of Trade:

"We, the undersigned members, request you to call an early day a general meeting of the Board to pledge ourselves to use our influence and money to recruit a battery to be known as the Board of Trade Battery."

"GEORGE STEEL,	I. Y. MUNN,	C. H. WALKER, JR.,
WM. STURGES,	G. L. SCOTT,	E. G. WOLCOTT,
E. AKIN,	T. J. BRONSON,	FLINT & THOMPSON."
M. C. STEARNS,

The meeting was called in their rooms, corner of South Water and Wells streets, July 21, 1862. Second Vice-President John L. Hancock presided with an outspoken patriotism in accord with the assembly. C. H. Walker, Jr., introduced resolutions in harmony with the call, which were unanimously adopted. Subscriptions were announced, and $5,121 was pledged. A muster roll was presented, bearing the legend, "Chicago Board of Trade Battery." The following names were enrolled for three years or the war: S. H. Stevens, S. C. Stevens, J. W. Bloom, Calvin Durand, Valentine Steel, H. B. Chandler, A. F. Baxter, H. J. Baxter, J. A. Howard.

The muster roll was entrusted to S. H. Stevens, and an adjournment carried. Thus was established a precedent—a commercial leadership—with the material result of placing in the field the Chicago Board of Trade Battery; the Seventy-second, Eighty-Eighth and One Hundred and Thirteenth Infantry Regiments Illinois Volunteers, and $50,000 war funds on deposit. On lightning wings this action flew east and west, firing the patriotism of commercial America, until the Nation felt its assuring influence. An enthusiastic meeting was held the evening of the 22d, and the muster roll increased to 63 names. The roll was closed at 4 P. M. on the 23d with 180 names and many waiting to sign. This dispatch was transmitted:

"BOARD OF TRADE ROOMS, CHICAGO, July 23, 1863.

"ABRAHAM LINCOLN, President of the United States:

"The Board of Trade of this city have within the last forty-eight hours raised $15,000 bounty money, and have recruited a full Company of Artillery.

"Signed,	J. L. HANCOCK,	GEORGE ARMOUR,	H. W. HINSDALE,
	WM. STURGES,	C. H. WALKER, JR.,	S. H. STEVENS."

July 24, 1862, Company occupied City Armory as drill-room. August 1, 1862, Captain J. Christopher, U. S. A., selected 155 men from the 180 enrolled (there was no medical examination), and mustered them into the service of the United States as the Chicago Board of Trade Battery Illinois Volunteers. James H. Stokes, a graduate of West Point Military Academy, was elected and mustered as Captain. August 2, en route to camp, marched in review past the Board of Trade rooms on South Water street. Partook of the hospitality of Mrs. Henry B. Clark, corner Michigan Boule-ward and 16th street. Marched to camp and pitched tents south of Camp Douglas, near what is now 37th street and Stanton avenue. George I. Robinson was elected Senior 1st Lieutenant, Trumbull D. Griffin, Junior 1st Lieutenant. S. H. Stevens was appointed Orderly Sergeant. August 4, A. P. Baxter was elected Senior 2d Lieutenant; Henry Bennett, Junior 2d Lieutenant. M. S. Sanford was appointed Quartermaster Sergeant; Calvin Duran, Commissary Sergeant; F. J. Deane, 1st Sergeant; L. B. Hand, 2d Sergeant; Wm. Randolph, 3d Sergeant; A. L. Adams, 4th Sergeant; George Bowers, 5th Sergeant; M. H. Salisbury, 6th Sergeant; together with twelve Corporals, six artificers and two Buglers.

August 11, received six James rifled ten-pounder field artillery guns. August 13, appeared for the first time in uniform. August 20, received 110 artillery horses. August 22, drilled with horses for first time. September 9, broke camp and moved via M. C. R. R. Arrived in Louisville on the 10th, at 7 P. M.; 15th, grand review on Broadway by General Charles Cruft; 16th, exchanged four rifled for four smooth-bored six-pounder guns. October 1, 1862, the army moved from Louisville on the campaign of Perryville. The Battery was attached to General Dumont's Division, which occupied the extreme left at Frankfort. October 11, Brigade of General R. S. Granger, of Dumont's Division, was ordered to report to Major General A. McD. McCook at the front. The Battery moved with the Brigade. Struck rebel General Forrest's command at Lawrenceburg. First engagement. One direct shot caused the enemy to retreat. October 30, Major General Rosecrans took command at Louisville. A department of the Cumberland was the second time created. The troops of the department were designated Fourteenth Army Corps. November 4, the army was ordered to advance on Nashville, Tenn. With General R. S. Granger in command of post of Bowling Green, and battery parked at headquarters, this kind of soldiering was not our wish. Captain James H. Stokes made application to be allowed to go to the front. His request was granted December 4. Infantry muskets and ammunition were furnished for all the cannoneers, and without escort, the battery moved in the direction of Nashville via Tyree Springs. The enemy held possession of the entire route, but we arrived safely December 7, 1862. Same evening S. H. Stevens took command of left section as Senior Second Lieutenant, and L. B. Hand was promoted Orderly Sergeant. December 14, 1862, a detail consisting of Lieutenant Stevens and Quartermaster Sergeant Durand, and ten men with three teams, were ordered out on Franklin Pike for forage. Sixteen mounted Confederates made a dash, wounded one man and captured six.

December 20, attached to Pioneer Brigade. This organization, formed by a detail of two men from each company of Infantry in the Army of the Cumberland, divided into three battalions under detailed officers, the whole commanded by Captain St. Clair Morton, of the Engineer Department Regular Army. December 26, 1862, campaign of Stone River opened. During the night of December 29, built two bridges over Stewart's Creek. December 30, army fighting for position. Bivouacked on the field three miles from Murfreesboro. December 31, 7 A. M., from the distant right came the sound of battle; 8 A. M., the whole right wing out of the fight, and the centre desperately engaged. The Battery came into position near the graveyard between the railroad and the pike. A slight rise beyond was occupied. To the left and front lay the key to the position—not to hold the gap would be fatal. At this juncture Major General Rosecrans dashed from the left to right, and discovering the Chicago Board of Trade Battery ready for the fray, but without positive direction. His orders were given to officers and men indiscriminately, as the case demanded. He spurred back to near the gap, returned part way, beckoned, and shouted "Right this way." As on parade, the command at a trot came into battery in the gap on the crest with diminished intervals, made necessary by a point of second-growth forest on either flank. On the right and immediate front on open field beyond, within easy musket range debouching from the death-masked cedars, the enemy in pursuit of the retreating blue. The cannoneers were at their posts, the General on the right in line. The order rang out, "load;" before the word "fire" came he raised his hand and plunged down the declivity in front. He had seen approaching routed mass of soldiers, who at once would swarm on the front, over and through the battery, followed by the vicious foe; a moment's delay, and the capture of the Battery would be inevitable. On came the exultant yell. The artillerymen stood with lanyard tightly drawn, until to longer wait all was lost. As from one gun six death-dealing shells passed over the head of the commander General into the mass of "gray" beyond, and from thence thirty per minute until the front was clear.

Our Battery stood in relief on the crest; each gun squad could be counted by the relief across the intervening space. The enemy's artillery opened with deadly precision, and so admirably was it masked that their guns could not be located. The infantry, formed in front of the forest, delivered a volley, and charged across the open field. Then canister was the cry; within thirty yards the foremost went down, when all not disabled sought shelter in the rear. This was thrice repeated. By 11 o'clock the enemy had learned that neither bravery nor numbers could carry the battery in their front, and all was quiet. Three of our men lay dead by their disabled guns. Ten wounded were taken to the rear. The Battery having held its ground, it became the pivotal point on which the right and centre rested. Late in the afternoon, to meet a threatened assault of Preston's and Palmer's rebel brigades, the left section of Battery changed front to the southwest. Palmer's brigade was in ambuscade on the border of an open field, 200 yards to our front, and at twilight unmasked their line by a dropping fire on Union soldiers gathering dead and wounded between the lines. The section opened with a zeal unsurpassed. The rebels, being taken entirely by surprise, were thrown into the greatest confusion, some retreating; others advanced firing until they reached our line and were taken in. The section returned to its original position, and the second day at Stone River was closed. In the chilly night, without fires, we buried our dead, and then lay on the frozen ground awaiting the coming of the morning of the new year and a renewal of the contest. January 2, six volunteers from the command took from between the lines under fire an abandoned six-pounder gun to replace the one disabled. In recognition General Rosecrans declared the organization a seven-gun Battery, and it so remained until after the battle of Chickamauga. 4 P. M.—The Battery in reserve, in battery, in the forest on the left bank of Stone River, one-fourth of a mile in rear of left wing. Then General J. S. Negley came dashing back. "For God's sake, Captain Stokes, come to the front; our men are giving way." The order rang out clear and full: "Limber to the front."—"By pieces from the right, forward into column."—"Trot."—"Gallop." Without change of gait the order came, "Forward into battery." Fifty-eight cannon poured their iron contents into the rebel mass, and with lightning rapidity repeated until their lines waver, reel and break to the rear, pursued as by an avenging Nemesis,—the Stars and Stripes. It was estimated that in 40 minutes 2,000 rebels lay bleeding on the field. In the meantime the rebel General Bragg had ordered a division on the left bank of the river but the repulse had been so quick and decisive that the troops did not get into position until late—absolute victory appeared to cover the movement to all except Captain Stokes. He ordered the Battery forward and without support checked the advance at short range. Our position being noticed, infantry was ordered up and the enemy dispersed. The Battery crossed the river. Commands which belonged to the "left" coming into line, the Battery returned. January 4, Sunday, rebel army in full retreat. Our loss was 3 killed, 8 wounded.

The following dispatch was sent:

NASHVILLE, TENN., January 3, 1863.

"MURRY NELSON & Co., Chicago:

"Murfreesboro is ours. Terrific fighting on Friday. No more casualties in the Battery; it has won glorious distinction.

S. H. STEVENS."

Without our knowledge it was the first news received of the victory of the Union arms at Stone River. January 6 to June 23, 1863, in camp at Murfreesboro, Tenn. The most notable event was the changing of the command from mounted field to horse artillery, and being attached to the Second Division of Cavalry, Army of the Cumberland, commanded by Brigadier General John B. Turchin, and were the only Battery of horse or flying artillery in the western armies. June 24, moved with the army, keeping on the flanks as it advanced, following Bragg's army through Tallahoma and Winchester to Huntsville, Ala. July 15, from here the third section, under command of Lieutenant Griffin, went via McMinnville and Pikeville, crossing the Tennessee River on the left of the army, and at Ringgold, Ga., fired the first gun, which opened the battle of Chickamauga, September 19. August 20, crossed the Cumberland Mountains toward Stevenson. September 2, went over the Tennessee River, moving south to Big Willis Valley; 9th marched south on top of Lookout range, down into the valley, scouting on the left of Bragg's army, going within two miles of Lafayette, Ga. Sunday, 20th, moved through Stevens' Gap, and at 10 A. M. joined the army, and fought on the extreme right during the battle of Chickamauga; also 21st and 22d; our loss being 12 horses, and three wheels from the guns.

From September 23d to October 1st, the Battery with the Second Division of Cavalry, under Brigadier General George Crook, was guarding fords above Chattanooga. On the 1st the rebel Major General Joseph Wheeler crossed at Washington, 10 miles above, with 6,000 men; two other columns were preparing to cross below, one at Bellefonte, the other at Courtland, Ala. October 2d, Second Division Cavalry and guns 1, 2 and 4 from the Battery, passed over Waldron's ridge in pursuit of rebel General Wheeler. October 3d, descended the Cumberland Mountains. Encountered the rebels in severe skirmish. October 4th, passed through McMinnville, and drove rear guard seven miles beyond. October 5th, General Wheeler reached Murfreesboro, and threw out feelers to the south for his anticipated divisions, but they did not come. Charged his rear guard two miles out, and by a flank movement placed the Division between the enemy and Nashville. This and the non-appearance of the other columns caused Wheeler to turn south to effect a junction as well as to avoid an engagement. October 6th, marched through Guy's Gap to within six miles of Shelbyville. October 7th, crossed Duck River at Shelbyville. Three miles beyond discovered a rebel brigade camp, enjoying the rich loot of the town. Mounted infantry charged and dispersed them. The Second Division of Cavalry ordered in pursuit. Without orders, the Battery joined. The rear was pushed on to the main column by an almost continuous fire until late in the afternoon. General Wheeler was forced to mass at Farmington. The frequent contests had fully advised the rebel General of the capabilities of each arm engaged. This knowledge urged him to guard against cavalry and make his own heavy short-range artillery effective. Dismounted cavalry was formed across the road, protected by the fences and buildings of the town, with an open country to the rear. In front at short musket range, a cedar thicket about 100 yards in extent, resting on a gentle incline toward the west, which began with the cedars on the east. This thicket was so dense that dismounted men could not form until the open ground toward the enemy was gained. The road through the cedars was narrow, the evergreens meeting overhead. The rebel artillery, consisting of two twelve-pounder howitzers and a three-inch rifled gun, was placed at a bend in the road four hundred yards down the incline. The distance left them outside of the cedars, so as to have an enfilading fire on any troops emerging therefrom. As no gun at the top of the incline could be depressed so as to be brought to bear on the rebel guns, to insure any execution our artillery had to be placed fifty yards to the front. The rebel artillery no longer sweeps the road. Our troops have passed the cedars, their lines enfiladed. Fifty yards down the incline beneath the cedars within three hundred and fifty yards of the enemy, their weight of metal as five to one. Our percussion shells explode in their midst. A caisson goes up; but the enemy fights with a will. A three-inch shell strikes our trail. Every man is swept from his place. All are wounded. Another shot, and our gun is disabled. Lieutenant Stevens in command, hurries to the rear, and willing hands amidst a hell of fire roll the second gun into position. It opens, and the slaughter is such there is none to serve the rebel guns. The dismounted men charged, and the enemy fled. October 8th, in pursuit. 9th, found the enemy entrenched at Sugar Creek. Charged and routed them and pursued hotly to Tennessee River. General Thomas reported: "This pursuit is unsurpassed for its energy, bravery and endurance." October 18th to 15th, marched to Decherd for C. and Q. M. stores. Found none. Countermarched to Mayssville and lived off the country. October 20th Captain Stokes relieved of command to take position in Q. M. Department. November, moved to Huntsville and Battery again united. December 2d, Lieutenant Stevens ordered to Nashville in interest of Q. M. Department.

The other four guns of the Battery moved, November 7th, from Smith's Cross Roads, Tenn., via Bridgeport, and, after various stops, went into camp at Huntsville, Ala., November 25. Here recruited horses and rested, moving, December 21, toward Pulaski, Tenn. Camped there on 27th. Lay in camp at Pulaski, Tenn., from December 27, 1863, to January 12, 1864; from Pulaski a large part of our division re-enlisted, and went home on 30 days' furlough. On the 14th we reached Huntsville, Ala. and went into camp until February 2, when the old guns and equipments, with the harness, were shipped by rail to Chattanooga. General George H. Thomas having declared "we had earned two or three new batteries," gave an order for a battery of Rodman's. February 10, left Huntsville with the horses for Nashville, Tenn.; on the 24th were fitted out complete with battery of new 3-inch Parrots, harness, etc. Leaving camp March 10, marched back to Huntsville, Ala. On April 4, started as guard to 200 wagons, being escorted by the Third Brigade of the Second Division Cavalry; reached Columbia, Tenn., on the 8th, going into camp with the whole Division now in command of Brigadier General K. Garrard. April 30 left for the front by the way of Shelbyville, Farmington, Tullahoma, Decherd, and over the Cumberland Mountains at Cowan; crossed the Tennessee River at Bridgeport, going over on top of the railroad bridge as far as it was built, and the rest of the way via pontoon. Camped the 7th at Nick-a-Jack cave, having thoroughly explored which, we destroyed the rebel saltpetre works at its mouth. Moved by way of Chattanooga to Lafayette, Ga., where the whole Second Division Cavalry, Army of the Cumberland, came together, most of the Division having crossed Lookout Range; from the 11th to 17th were continually on the scout, and on right flank of the army, going as far as Rome, Ga.; on the 19th made a forced march of 20 miles toward Kingston, Ga., pressing Polk's rear guard, and getting to the Etowah River bridge in time to shell the rebels off and save it from destruction by fire; from Etowah were day and night in the saddle on the left wing of the army. At one time were sixty hours on picket duty without relief. In June, rations were very short, the men receiving four crackers to last five days; were forced to steal corn from the horses. Were in action June 8th, 9th, 11th, 15th, 18th, 20th and 27th. July 3 passed through Marietta, Ga., driving the rebels to and through Roswell, capturing that place, and destroying the large cotton factories there. July 10, crossed the Chattahoochee River; 18th, started on a raid, and tore up six miles of the Augusta & Atlanta Railroad, south and east of Stone Mountain, getting back safely. On the 20th went into the main line, filling a gap between McPherson and Thomas. On the 21st the centre section went on a raid; 22d was a terrible day; we were in camp at Decatur, Ga., with the wagon trains of the Fifteenth, Seventeenth, and Twenty-third Army Corps, and they had as guard a Brigade of Infantry and a section of the Third Michigan battery under a Colonel Sprague. Suddenly at noon the rebel Wheeler's cavalry Division attacked the camp. We formed battery in our camp, and got into action just where we were. Our use of canister was fearful in its effects; but having no support, the rebels came over fences and around buildings, and we lost eight men out of thirty-two; but held them so long that not a wagon was captured. On the 27th started on another raid, getting round Atlanta to Jonesboro. General Stoneman having gone south, we retraced our way to Decatur. Rations for 22 men 7 days was 50 pounds hard bread. From August 1 to 15th, occupied position in the line circling Atlanta, and took our share in its destruction. On the 17th, guns 1, 3, 4, and 5, with the First and Second Brigades, Second Division Cavalry, reported to General Kilpatrick, at Sandtown, on the right of the line; at 6 o'clock P. M. on the 18th, we started to make the raid around Atlanta, and to cut the railroads running into the city. Kilpatrick, instead of using the battery belonging to his own division, placed us in the advance of the column in the movement to Lovejoy Station, then when the command was entirely surrounded, used us to open the way for his troops to retreat, then cover his retreat. We lost 5 men, burst one gun, broke axle of another, throwing gun into a river, but captured and brought away a 6-pounder. We reached Decatur on the 22d,—four days and three nights in the saddle, having made a complete circle around Hood's army, and the city of Atlanta. First Lieutenant George I. Robinson commissioned Captain August 22, 1864. When the army moved south of Atlanta, were with the rear guard, and on the flanks until September 10, when we went into camp at Cross Keys, having been moving almost daily since April 30. September 21, broke camp, going through Atlanta out on the Sandtown road. October 3, moved through Atlanta, north to the Chattahoochee River, crossed on pontoon (which swung in a raging stream) safely, reaching Marietta at noon on the 4th, where we halted; some of the command went on top of Kenesaw Mountain, and were present when General Sherman signaled to General Corse, at Allatoona, his world-wide known message, "Hold the fort; I am coming. W. T. Sherman."

Moved on the 9th, going from flank to flank, or back to the rear, as needed, to keep off Forrest's and Wheeler's rebel cavalry.

On November 1 all good horses were turned over to Kilpatrick's Division, and we moved north to Chattanooga, which place was reached on the 5th. On the 13th, went by rail to Nashville, Tenn.

December 1, having received new horses, we moved our camp into the city; and, as Hood's army threatened the city, we went into the breastworks. Major General J. H. Wilson was now in command of the Cavalry Corps.

On the 15th we were on the extreme right in the battle of Nashville. We did not lose a man; our Division captured 1,200 prisoners, 18 pieces of artillery, 200 wagons, and drove the rebel left 5 miles, halting for the night on the "Brentwood" pike, following next day to Franklin. The bridge over Duck River having been destroyed, we could not get across until the 23d.

On the 24th, were on the skirmish line all day, and in action almost every hour; lost 1 man killed; drove Hood's rear guard 21 miles, and by our quick and accurate firing saved the long covered bridge over Richland Creek. During the night the rebels did not stop, but by 11:30 A. M. we had overtaken them, and our shells threw them into fearful disorder, and we captured 14 wagons of ammunition, and they threw into Elk River 7 guns, and into Duck River 17 guns. The roads were in fearful condition. Hood's army having crossed the Tennessee River, we marched to Waterloo, Ala., going into camp at a place called Gravelly Springs. Here gunboats and transports brought us rations, and we remained in camp until March 22, 1865; then, being fully and well equipped, and still attached to the Second Division Cavalry, Army of the Cumberland, we commenced our last great move, going through Frankfort and Russellville, crossing Big Bear Creek to Jasper.

March 29, we safely forded the Big Warrior River, a wild, rough stream, where many men and horses of our Cavalry were drowned. Crossed the same day the Little Warrior River. Water so deep that the powder was taken from the limber chests and carried on the shoulders of mounted men. Crossed Cahawba River on ties of the railroad bridge, 40 feet above the water, taking the horses from the guns, leading the horses over, and running the guns by hand. Each day we drove the rebel Cavalry; but they did not succeed in making a stand that required the use of our guns.

March 30, marched 37 miles; April 1, 47 miles. This day the rebels set fire to the pine woods, and we had to go through them for a half-mile at a gallop; fortunately, no horse fell, and none of the men were seriously burned; but it was almost a miracle that no caisson was blown up. The rebel Cavalry under General Roddy made a stand in the afternoon, when we got into action, quickly capturing 3 pieces of artillery, and our support capturing 200 prisoners and a train of cars loaded with forage.

April 2, 1865, Sunday, day never to be forgotten while any member of the Battery lives, a march of 20 miles brought us to the works in front of Selma, Ala., when 1,200 men of the Second Division Cavalry, armed with their Spencers, charged and captured the works, driving 7,000 men out of the works, taking 2,300 prisoners and all the artillery. The Battery fired over the charging line until the works were carried, then moved into the city with the charging line and materially helped the rebels out of the city.

April 3, 4, 5 and 6 were spent destroying the artillery and carriages in the breastworks and forts, throwing all the ammunition in the arsenal into the river. On the night of the 8th we burned the arsenal, foundry and machine shops.

Left Selma 6 o'clock morning of the 11th, going toward Montgomery, Ala. Marching was exceedingly severe on men and horses, we having but  $3\frac{1}{2}$  hours' sleep out of 108 consecutive hours.

Captured Columbus, Ga., the night of the 18th. We had the advance, as we always had when any fighting was expected, made 58 miles, halting twice only.

On 19th, marched 42 miles (100 miles in two days), going into Macon, Ga., and camping two miles out on the Columbus road. 23d, rumor of Lee's surrender. 25th, rumor of the shooting of President Lincoln. May 3d we had confirmed the rumor through a New York Herald only five days old.

May 9, we remained in camp, while the Fourth Michigan Cavalry (of our Division) went after Jeff. Davis. On the 13th they returned, having captured his family, himself, and others of the Confederate cabinet.

On the 23d (the war over), we started North, marching through Atlanta, Marietta, Kingston, Dalton, to Chattanooga, 234 miles. Loaded the guns on cars, while the horses and postillions went with the Cavalry to Nashville, Tenn., 151 miles.

June 23, left Nashville by rail, arriving at Chicago at 3:30 A. M. on the 27th. At noon were received on "Change" by the Board of Trade. At 8 o'clock that evening were given a banquet at the Metropolitan Hall.

June 29, reported at Camp Douglas, but allowed to go to the city afterward. July 3, paid in full and mustered out to date June 30, 1865.

The Battery marched 5,268 miles; traveled by rail 1,231 miles. Were in 11 of the hardest battles fought in the West. Were in 26 other battles. Were in action 42 times while on scouts, reconnoissances, or outpost.

That you may know in what esteem we were held by all the Generals under whom we served, we have only to bring to mind one incident: General George Crook said: "I thank the command for their good behavior in every particular. So long as I have had command of you I never had a single complaint made against the Chicago Board of Trade Battery. I never saw so well drilled or so good a battery in action as you are—all gentlemen, and act the gentleman at all times." By special orders our flags (these being the first carried by an artillery company, and then by special orders,) had placed on them "Stone River," "Elk River," "Chikamauga," "Farming-ton," "Dallas," "Decatur," "Atlanta," "Lovejoy," "Nashville," "Selma." The flags (two) were placed in the vault of the Chamber of Commerce in Chicago, and in the great fire of 1871 were destroyed. All papers in the possession of General James H. Stokes, our first Captain, were destroyed in the same fire. The company books, orders, etc., were burned in 1878, at the destruction of Captain George I. Robinson's residence in Milwaukee, Wis.

This sketch is compiled at the request of Adjutant General J. W. Vance, by B. F. Nourse, S. H. Stevens, S. M. Randolph, J. C. Camberg and Chas. Frink, May, 1886, and approved by the Veteran Battery Association, June 24, 1886, and is from diaries in their possession, which were written daily as the events at the time occurred.

HISTORY OF CHICAGO MERCANTILE BATTERY.

This Battery was recruited and organized under the auspices of the Mercantile Association, an association of prominent and patriotic merchants of the City of Chicago.

It was mustered into the United States service on the 29th of August, 1862, at Camp Douglas.

Remaining in camp till November 8, they were ordered to the field, reaching Memphis on the 11th, where they disembarked and went into camp on Poplar street. Here they remained for several days, and were then ordered to accompany General Sherman on his march to Oxford, Miss., it being sometimes known as the "Tallahatchie March." The object of the expedition being accomplished, the Battery returned with the army to Memphis.

From thence they accompanied General Sherman on his expedition up the Yazoo, or the first attack upon Vicksburg, being assigned to the old Tenth Division of the Thirteenth Army Corps, under command of General A. J. Smith. They reached the battle field on the morning of the 25th of December, performing splendid service on the right of the line.

A retreat was ordered on the night of the 1st of January, 1863. One section of the Battery covered the retreat of the rear guard and were the last men to leave the famous Yazoo swamps.

They then embarked on transports and with the rest of the army took part in the reduction of Arkansas Post on the 11th and 12th of January. One section was planted on the right bank of the Arkansas River, opposite the fort, and the other four guns were on the left of the line on the left bank or fortified side of the river. In the gallant service rendered by them on this occasion they were highly complimented by General Osterhaus, and publicly thanked before the whole army.

From thence they embarked upon transports and proceeded to Young's Point, opposite Vicksburg, where they remained for a few weeks, and were then ordered to Milliken's Bend.

On the 15th of April, they led out with the Thirteenth Army Corps, under the command of General John A. McClernand, and took part in the glorious campaign which finally culminated in the capture of Vicksburg. Crossing the Mississippi at Bruinsburg on the night of the 30th of April, they were in time to take part in the battle of Magnolia Hills, May 1, and were actively engaged, and performed splendid service during the entire day. Continuing its march towards Vicksburg, it again encountered the enemy on the 16th of May, at Champion Hills, where it had a fearful artillery duel with an eight-gun battery belonging to the First Regiment of Mississippi Light Artillery. The fight occurred at the short range of three hundred yards. General Tilgham was killed by a well directed shot from No. 2 gun of this Battery. The fighting was severe and the Battery lost heavily. The following day more laurels were won at the battle of Black River Bridge. Participating in the pursuit of the retreating foe, they came within sight of the heights of Vicksburg on the afternoon of the 18th of May.

On the 22d of May, an assault was ordered along the whole line, and one section of the Battery literally charged a bastion, pulling their guns by hand up to within twenty feet of the works. Here they remained for eight long hours in the face of a fearfully heavy fire. Hand grenades were tossed over from behind the works, and were quickly thrown back to explode among the enemy. When night set in they ran their guns down into the ravine below and saved them. For this and other acts they were specially mentioned by General McClernand in his dispatches.

The following day one section was ordered to report to General Alvin P. Hovey, on the extreme left of the line, where it remained for several days, and performed gallant service in the good cause. Having taken in the whole siege it was, on the afternoon of the surrender, (July 4.) ordered to start at once to meet General Joe Johnston, who was rapidly marching with a large army to the relief of Vicksburg. Encountering the enemy at Jackson, they were hotly engaged with him for seven days.

After Johnston was driven across the Pearl River, the Battery returned to Vicksburg, and went into camp on the river bank, below the town. A few weeks of rest and recuperation, and marching orders were received to report to General Banks, commanding the Department of the Gulf.

Arriving at New Orleans, the Battery went into camp near the village of Carrollton, six miles north of the city. We next find it up the Bayou Teche. A few months of pleasant camp life were spent at Franklin and at New Iberia, on that celebrated bayou, but no arduous service was performed.

In December orders were received to repair to New Orleans and embark on an ocean steamer for Texas. On arriving at New Orleans they embarked on board the steamer St. Mary, and reached Pass Cavallo, on Matagorda Bay, on the first day of the year 1864. In early March they were again put aboard an ocean steamer, and headed for Berwick City, on Berwick Bay. On arriving at Berwick they debarked and joined the column under Lieutenant Banks, and here commenced the long march made famous as the Red River expedition.

On arriving at Sabine Cross Roads they took part in that disastrous affair, but fought bravely to the last, fighting at close quarters, double-shooting their guns with canister. This battery was the only battery that brought their guns off the field. Pulling their guns into the road, they could get them no farther, as the road was blocked by every conceivable form of vehicle one facing the other. A shot was wedged in one of the guns, and two of the others were spiked. About one-half of the horses were saved by cutting the traces. The losses were two officers killed and two taken prisoner; four men were killed, nine wounded, and twenty-three taken prisoners.

Sick at heart but true and loyal they reached Grand Ecore on Red River as best they might. At this point they were put aboard of the hospital steamer Rob't Morris. On reaching Alexandria they were transferred to the Mobile packet Kate Dale, and steamed away for the Crescent City. On arriving there they were sent to a cotton press, only remaining there a few days, from thence they were sent to Post Paropet Defences of New Orleans. Here they were ordered to take muskets and perform infantry duty. A protest against this was drawn up and signed by every man in camp but one. Lieutenant Roe the only Commissioned Officer with the Battery, and the Non-commissioned Officers were placed under arrest and marched to Baronne street Military prison where they remained in confinement for 35 days, at the expiration of which time the non-commissioned officers were reduced to the ranks and released. Lieutenant Roe was tried by Court Martial and acquitted. As nothing was said against reinstating the non-commissioned officers they were all put back in their old places on the following day. Shortly after this the guns, horses and equipments of Battery G, Fifth U. S. Artillery, were turned over to them at Carrollton, La. Leaving New Orleans November 1st they joined the column under General Davidson at Baton Rouge, the purpose of the expedition being to cut the Mobile and Ohio Railroad. The object of the expedition was not obtained, but they brought up at Pascagoula, situated on the bay of that name. They marched three hundred miles over some of the most horrible roads ever traveled. In some instances the men were in their saddles for 24 hours and only making a distance of 7 miles in that time. Thirty horses died out of the Battery on this raid. On the 25th of December the Battery completed a breast-work and christened it Fort Christmas. A few days later they were loaded aboard of an ocean steamer, under orders for New Orleans. On arriving there they were again ordered to Baton Rouge, remaining there until May, 1865, then down the river again to New Orleans. Late in June the Battery was ordered home to be mustered out, reaching Chicago July 3d, there received their final payment and were mustered out of service July 10, 1865, having traveled by river, sea and land over eleven thousand miles. On their arrival at Chicago a banquet was given in their honor at the Tremont

House, and a glorious reception awaited them from the Mercantile Association and other friends. The total number of men connected with the Battery was 244, it having been recruited several times while in the field. Of the original 156 officers and men who left Chicago with them November 8, 1862, but thirty-five returned on July 3, 1865. A few days previous to their leaving New Orleans for home, Captain P. H. White, Lieutenant P. S. Cone and 22 of the men who were captured at Sabine Cross Roads joined them from their prison pen at Camp Ford, Tyler, Texas, they having been confined 14 months; one of the members (Walter Felter) died in prison. The following is a roster of the officers upon their return to Chicago: Captain P. H. White, Senior First Lieutenant P. S. Cone, Junior First Lieutenant Henry Roe, Senior Second Lieutenant F. D. Meacham, Junior Second Lieutenant J. C. Sinclair.

HISTORY OF SPRINGFIELD LIGHT ARTILLERY.

The "Springfield Light Artillery" was recruited principally from the cities of Springfield, Belleville and Wenona, and was mustered into the United States service at Springfield, for the term of three years, on the 21st day of August, 1862, numbering 120 men and officers.

November 1, 1862, it was ordered to the front. Arrived at Bolivar, Tenn., November 8, 1862, and was assigned to the First Brigade, First Division, Sixteenth Army Corps, under the immediate command of Brigadier General Mason Brayman.

December 18, 1862, the right and left sections of the Battery were ordered to Jackson, Tenn., to join the expedition against Forrest, and after an absence of 5 days returned to Bolivar, Tenn.

On the 18th day of June, 1863, the Battery was divided, the right section being stationed at Germantown, Tenn., the centre at Moscow, and the left at Collierville, along the line of the Memphis and Charleston Railroad.

August 30, 1863, the Battery was remitted and assigned to the Second Brigade, First Division, Sixteenth Army Corps, under command of Colonel James True, and started en route to Little Rock, Ark., and participated in its capture on the 10th day of September, 1863.

On the 19th day of October, 1863, the left section was detached from the Battery and ordered to Lewisburg, Ark., where it remained until the 15th day of March, 1864, when it again joined the Battery March 17, 1864.

The Battery was next assigned to the Second Brigade, First Division, Seventh Army Corps, under the immediate command of Colonel Adolph Englemann, of the Forty-third Illinois Infantry, and joined General Steel's expedition to cooperate with General Banks' Red River expedition, and participated in the several skirmishes of that campaign, and the battles of Prairie D'Ann and Jenkins Ferry.

Returned to Little Rock, Ark., May 3, 1864, where the Battery remained until June, 1865, when orders were received to report at Springfield, Ill., for muster out of service.

Arrived at Springfield, Ill., June 25, 1865, and mustered out on the 30th day of June, 1865.

HISTORY OF COGSWELL'S BATTERY, LIGHT ARTILLERY.

Cogswell's Battery, Illinois Light Artillery, was organized at Ottawa, Ill., by Captain William Cogswell, and was mustered in November 11, 1861, as Company A, Artillery, Fifty-third Illinois Volunteers, Colonel Cushman commanding the Regiment.

On February 28, 1862, moved to Chicago, Ill., and, on March 17, it was detached from the Regiment, and moved to St. Louis, Mo. On April 8, embarked for Pittsburg Landing. Was assigned to duty in Third Division, Army of Tennessee, Brigadier General Lew. Wallace commanding. Participated in the advance on Corinth, and, from thence, marched to Memphis, Tenn., arriving June 14, 1862. On November 26, was assigned to Fifth Division, Brigadier General J. W. Denver commanding, and marched with General Sherman's expedition toward Vicksburg. On the return of Sherman's Army, the Battery moved with McPherson's Army to the Yaconapatalfa River, and afterwards, marched to Grand Junction, arriving January 9, 1863.

March 8, 1863, moved to Lagrange. On June 4, moved to Memphis, and embarked for Vicksburg. Participated in the siege of Vicksburg.

On September 28, embarked for Memphis. On 11th October, marched from Memphis, and, November 23 and 24, participated in the battle of Mission Ridge.

April 20, 1864, moved to Nashville. On December 15 and 16, 1864, was engaged in the battle of Nashville, Lieutenant McClary commanding. Marched to Pulaski, Clifton and Eastport. On February 5, 1865, embarked for New Orleans. From March 28 to April 8, was engaged with the Sixteenth Corps, in operations against Spanish Fort, Ala. Moved thence to Blakely, and, after its capture, to Montgomery, Ala.

July 28, 1865, ordered to Springfield, Ill. Mustered out August 11, 1865.

The Battery was in the service three years and nine months, and has marched over 7,500 miles, and participated in seven sieges and battles.

HISTORY OF STURGIS RIFLES.

This was a separate company organized at Chicago, armed, equipped and subsisted for nearly two months by the patriotic generosity of Mr. Solomon Sturgis.

The Company was organized in April, 1861, and was mustered into service May 6. It was armed by its patron with Sharpe's rifles. About the middle of June, 1861, the Company was ordered to West Virginia to serve as a body guard to General McClellan. The Company reported to General McClellan at Parkersburg and accompanied him in the West Virginia campaign. It participated in the battle of Rich Mountain and marched with General McClellan to Washington, where he went to assume the command of the armies.

Washington was reached on July 26, 1861, and the Company did guard duty until March 10, 1862, when the "forward march" was ordered. It accompanied the General on the march upon Yorktown and during the siege of that place, thence into the seven days battle of the Chickahominy. At the close of the campaign the Rifles returned to Washington. Many of the members of the Company had been detached as foragers, scouts, etc. A few of the Company were in the battle of Antietam. The Company left the Army at Falmouth and on November 25, 1862, it was mustered out of service at Washington.

This Company was organized in Missouri under authority of General Fremont, to be attached to the Twenty-third Illinois Infantry (Irish Brigade) as a Cavalry company. The officers were commissioned by the Governor of Illinois. The Company was not attached to the Irish Brigade, but, against the protest of its members, was assigned as Company L to the Third Missouri Cavalry. On account of the difficulties and animosities engendered by this transfer, the Company was subsequently assigned as Company L to the Fifth Iowa Cavalry.
